Bulletin of Bibliography

Vol. 2

OCTOBER, 1899

No. 1

This Bulletin is published, primarily, as a means of communication between the Boston Book Company and its customers. A constant endeavor will be made, however, to include in each issue enough original matter of sufficient value to induce librarians to preserve and bind up the numbers. Each volume will be provided with a title-page and an index.

No subscription price will be put upon the journal, and numbers will not be sold. It will be sent to a selected list of libraries, customers or likely to become customers of the Boston Book Company. The circulation of the Bulletin will be increased in proportion to the interest shown in it, and in the special work of the Library Department of the Boston Book Company. Correspondence is solicited, and should be addressed,

The Boston Book Company, 15½ Beacon St., Boston, Mass.

EDITORIAL.

The vacation period is now fully over and library work has begun again in earnest. The time is at hand when the policy of the coming year must be outlined, the expenditure of book funds apportioned.

This number of the BULLETIN OF BIBLIOGRAPHY comes to you as a reminder that in order to keep the library well balanced in all its departments, a purchase of sets of reference periodicals is necessary each year. Something must also be done to complete a few more of the defective sets.

The value of periodicals in reference work is too apparent to need any comment here from us. We only urge you to decide early what sets you will add this year, and write us for estimates if what you wish is not on our advertising pages.

This issue begins a new volume of our BULLE-TIN. The few copies of volume one that remain may now be purchased at $1.50 each, neatly bound in buckram. Back numbers cannot be furnished, nor will any price be put upon the current volume until it is completed.

We should be glad to receive for publication lists or text articles of a bibliographical nature and of general interest to the library world.

Some Notes on The Gentleman's Magazine.

W. H. BRETT,

LIBRARIAN CLEVELAND PUBLIC LIBRARY.

THE "Gentleman's Magazine" is of interest not only for the intrinsic value and wide range of its contents but for its historical and literary associations.

The name "magazine" was first applied in the sense in which it is now so commonly used, to the "Gentleman's Magazine" by its founder, Edward Cave. When the first number of the "Gentleman's Magazine" was issued, George the Second had only been for four years on the throne of England. In Prussia, Frederick, not yet the Great, had narrowly escaped, at the hands of his tyrannical father, the doom to which his friend Kat was consigned, and was destined for eleven years longer to endure the petulant persecution of that testy monarch, who seemed to think more of a new recruit of the requisite stature, for his giant guards, than he did of his son and heir.

The throne of France was occupied by Louis the fifteenth, and probably the worst of the name, and nearly all Europe was engaged in a war to settle the succession to the throne of a kingdom soon to be blotted from the map. The loyal American colonies of England, scattered in a thin fringe along the Atlantic seaboard, had as yet taken no important step toward that confederation which was to bring independence, nationality and empire. In England itself the first Stuart rising was only about fifteen years in the past and the second about as far in the future. The kingdom which now sustains with equanimity a national debt of £640,000,000 viewed with apprehension a debt of only £,50,000,000, and that great financial scheme, one of whose objects was to pay this debt off, the South Sea bubble, had a few years before blown up and bursted, an eighteenth century example of undue expansion.

When the first number of the "Gentleman's Magazine" was issued, Pope was forty-three and his work was well nigh done, although the poem which is possibly the best known of all was not published until the next year. Thomson, born in 1700, had just issued the last of his poems on the seasons. Johnson, a young man of twenty-two, had just lost his father, the old book-seller, and was beginning a struggle which did not terminate until, more than thirty years afterwards, the government gave him a pension and the Thrales a home.

The Tatler, the Spectator and the Guardian appeared between 1709 and 1713. The Rambler, the Adventurer, the Connoisseur and more of the same sort, in 1750, and the years following. Midway of this interim, came the first issues of the "Gentleman's Magazine," which contained in its earlier volumes many communications which would have been welcomed by Addison or Steele.

The publication office from which the first number of the magazine appeared in January, 1731, and from which it continued to issue during the lifetime of its founder and for many years afterwards, was the old St. John's Gate in Clerkenwell. This was the old gate house of the establishment of the Knights of St. John, the crusading Hospitallers who for so many years on the fields of Palestine and in Rhodes and Malta sustained the cause of Holy Church and the honor of England. A cut of the gateway appears on the title page of the first and subsequent volumes, supported on each side by the list of periodicals from which extracts were most frequently made. A room over the gateway itself was the home of the Urban Club, and on the lower floor was a coffee room frequented by Johnson and others.

According to the Introduction in the first volume, the plan of the magazine was decided upon by a number of gentlemen to "meet a long-felt want." Their reason, briefly summarized, was this: namely, that, owing to "the overwhelming production of periodical literature," there being at that time not less than two hundred half-sheets issued in London each month, it had become necessary to provide a periodical which should extract the most important articles from each and lay them before its readers in a convenient form, and to this it was proposed to add original features of interest. In this day when we are accustomed to find in a single issue of a Sunday paper more reading matter, exclusive of advertisements, than is found in Henry Esmond or a volume of Motley; or in any one of the scores of monthly magazines as much as in an ordinary twelve-mo volume, two hundred half-sheets hardly seems overwhelming in quantity.

The first volume, according to the title page, was edited by Sylvanus Urban, of Aldermans-bury, Gent. The second volume is edited by Silvanus Urban who spells his name this time with an "i" and adds neither place nor title. In the third volume the spelling of Sylvanus with a "y" is restored and the title "Gent." again added, but the fiction of the place is omitted. In this form it appears in all subsequent issues to the present time.

The motto on the title page of the first volume was "Prodesse et delectare": to this is added in the second volume those words afterward better known, "E pluribus unum."

The list of journals quoted from, given on the title page, includes "The Craftsman," "The London Journal," "The Grubstreet Journal," "Fog's Journal," "The Universal Spectator," "The Free Briton" and several others.

The full title reads, "The Gentleman's Magazine, or Trader's Monthly Intelligencer." The first part of each number of the earlier volumes consists of extracts from other journals, each duly credited. It was thus doing on a small scale what has since been done by the "Eclectic" and the "Living Age."

In the first number is an extract from "The Universal Spectator," being a communication from a lady who signs herself Tristitia Stale, complaining of the persecution she suffers on account of being an old maid, and asking the editor to write an article in favor of the single life, and rebuking those malaperts who ridicule chastity. The same issue contains also a communication from Charlotte Wilful, who asks editorial advice as to the relative merits of two suitors whose attentions to her are being strongly favored by her mother. One is a well-to-do farmer, Squire Scrape, and the other, Mr. Myrtle, a man no longer young, who has squandered one fortune but expects shortly to inherit another. She warns the editor, however, in a sort of postscript, that he must be prompt, as she has already decided to elope on the next Tuesday with Mr. Plum, a young lawyer from the Inner Temple, who, although without money, has an amiable disposition.

Among the items of news in the first volume are an account of the drowning of an old woman accused of witchcraft, and the repeated appearance of a ghost by whose means a murder was revealed and the remains of the victim found. The propriety of an experimental operation upon the ear of a condemned criminal is debated pro and con. Usually there does not appear to have been time to perform operations upon condemned criminals, as it was apparently the custom to execute the sentence the next day after it was pronounced. In one case it notes that, the trial being concluded on Saturday, the execution was deferred until Monday. The first number notes without comment the sentence of a murderer to be hung, disembowelled and quartered, and of his accomplice, a woman, to be burned. The magazine seems to have paid much attention to crime and punishment. The volume for 1759 contains a long and circumstantial account of the crime, trial and punishment of Eugene Aram, afterwards made famous by Bulwer and Hood, and among other interesting things in the first volume are a New Year's ode by Colley Cibber, the poet laureate, a long Latin epitaph, fortunately with a translation, on Mrs. Oldfield, and a conversation between the souls of a bishop, an actress and a physician, buried in Westminster Abbey. After a spirited discussion which becomes decidedly personal, the doctor attempts to close the conversation by telling the lady that a woman with such a tongue would turn paradise into a purgatory. She retorts that such a physician would abolish immortality and make a desert of paradise. That ends the discussion; the coffin lids close and silence reigns.

There is a fierce argument against a standing army, and also a notice that a tradesman has discovered perpetual motion. Men pass, but evidently questions of policy and investigation remain. There is also an account of the seizure of English ships and the torture of their crews by Spaniards. This was probably the occurrence which led nine years later, to the attack on Cartagena, known as the "War of Jenkin's ear." There is also an account of a raid on a gambling house, in which the language used appears to be technical.

Other features of each magazine are a record of current events, list of prices current, list of those who have failed in business disguised under the following form: B--kr-pts.

The founder of the magazine was Edward Cave, the grandson of a gentleman and the son of a shoemaker, who seems to have been the better man of the two. He was born in 1694, attended school at Rugby for a time, was afterwards clerk to an excise collector and apprentice to a lumber merchant. He learned the printing trade, married a widow with some money, held a position in the postoffice for a time, and then started the magazine which made him reputation and fortune. Although he had vainly urged the enterprise upon other publishers before undertaking it himself, no sooner was the magazine fairly established than rivals and imitators sprang up. For several years a competing magazine was edited by a former writer for Cave's magazine, which bore the same title and claimed to be the magazine. It reminds one of the rivalry not far from the same time between Benjamin Franklin and the opposition almanac maker. Franklin, indeed, started in Philadelphia a magazine on a similar plan bearing the title "The General Magazine," which never went farther than six issues, failing to be supported.

Cave had other troubles. Twice he was arrested and punished for indiscreet publication of parliamentary or other public matters. In 1738 he was forbidden to report parliamentary proceedings. This was evaded by the device of reporting regularly the proceedings of the parliament of Great Lilliput, and giving the prominent men fictitious names.

This suggests one of the most interesting episodes in the history of the magazine, the connection with it of Dr. Johnson.

Dr. Johnson came to London in 1738 with little money, some letters of introduction, and an unfinished tragedy in his pocket. After a time he was introduced to Cave by Savage, the unhappy author of "The Wanderer." He was employed by Cave and continued to write for the magazine regularly for several years, doing, among other things, the parliamentary report under the fiction of Great Lilliput. This was the first regular literary employment which he had. After his immediate connection with the magazine ceased, he still contributed occasionally to it, and his friendship for Cave continued through life.

Cave lived to see the magazine a great success and to reap a fortune from it. He died in 1754. His life was written by Dr. Johnson, and a portrait etched by Worlidge, from a painting by Kyte, appears in "The Gentleman's Magazine," 1754.

After the death of Cave it was carried on for a time by his brother-in-law, David Henry, and afterwards passed into other hands. Although for so long a period as it has been published, the changes of ownership have been few.

From the beginning until 1782 the numbers for each year were bound in one volume. From 1782 to date it has been paged and bound in two volumes each year. About the same time an improvement was made in the typography, and again about 1860 a change was made in its dress. The number of the current volume [October, 1899] is 289.

From the early days of the magazine until 1860 great attention was paid to archæology and folk lore. This is well illustrated in the series of sixteen volumes of selections edited by Laurence Gomme. These treat of folk-lore, archæology, literary curiosities, and bibliography, architectural antiquities and topography. A similar plan was suggested by Gibbon about 1790 and was carried out some twenty years later, being published in four volumes.

In 1860 a decided change was made in the policy of the magazine, and since that time it has little to distinguish it from other miscellaneous magazines, although occasionally an article appears which has the old flavor.

One of the most delightful things to me in turning over the historical pages of the old magazine is the charm of its contemporaneousness. I well remember how I was impressed when I found in the writings of one of the early fathers a letter to the Christians in prison expecting martyrdom. The whole situation was made real to me.

In just the same way the accounts in these old magazines of historical events which have since become famous, accounts which are generally imperfect and partial, give a stronger impression of reality than the finished history written at a later time: a reality due to the fact that to the writer they were actual and present.

One may find in this magazine a current account of the wars of Frederick the Great, accompanied by excellent copper-plate maps. One may find General Wolfe's dispatches detailing the operations before Quebec, followed by a letter from General Townshend, his successor, telling the story of the battle and the death of Wolfe. The correspondence at Boston between General Howe and Mr. Washington is interesting, and after following the course of the war it is interesting to note the arrival at Whitehall, after two months' journey, of a member of Lord Cornwallis' staff, bringing the general's account of that unfortunate affair, the defeat of Colonel Tarleton by General Morgan.

It follows the course of the French Revolution and Napoleon's career very seriously, but after the emperor is sent to Elba, like the literary gentleman with a wooden leg, it drops into poetry:—

Little Nap Horner
Is up in a corner
Dreading his doleful doom.
He who gave in his day
Whole kingdoms away
Now is glad to get Elba room."

And so it chronicles the passing events through the times of reform, the Indian mutiny, and our own Civil War.

The literary features of the magazine were of interest from the beginning. Although without poetic talent, Cave was, as Johnson says in his sketch, "a greater lover of poetry than any other art." While at first he relied upon clippings for the more solid part of his journal, he desired to obtain original communications for the poetical department. These were soon abundant, and the editor had to choose between the claims of many rival amateur poets. Nor was he contented to merely sit in judgment, but often attempted to straighten the crooked feet or revise the measure of the verses, and thereby he incurred the ill-will of the fond authors of their being. Later he offered prizes of money or books for the best poems upon stated subjects and for epigrams, of which he was particularly fond.

Throughout the first hundred years of the existence of the magazine it has a strong classical flavor. Original Latin verses, translations from the Greek and Latin poets, especially the more genial ones, and classical quotations, abound.

The first number contains a list of books published during the month and a half-page advertisement of one, a volume of sermons. In the second number it advertised at length a complete history of the executions which took place in 1730. At first only brief paragraphs were given, but later the reviews became a feature, and from its foundation until about 1860 almost every book of importance which appeared in England was either noticed or reviewed in its pages. To attempt to name them would be to give a catalogue of the best English writers of a century and a half.

Science also received attention. The first published accounts of Franklin's electrical experiments appeared in the "Gentleman's Magazine" for 1750.

These suggestions of some of the many interesting things in this old magazine have been culled principally from its own pages.

It is an interesting and impressive thought that through all the years with their changing seasons, the vicissitudes of peace and war which have passed since the issue of the first number in January, 1731, no month has passed in which the "Gentleman's Magazine" did not bring to readers and homes in town and country, its chronicle of events, with the opinion and genial comment of Sylvanus Urban, Gentleman.

BIBLIOGRAPHIES OF THE PHILIPPINE ISLANDS.

CHRONOLOGICAL CHECK LIST.

BY AKSEL G. S. JOSEPHSON.

Cataloguer, the John Crerar Library, Chicago

This list contains, with one or two exceptions, such bibliographies as deal with the Philippines only. Some titles here given are of books that, without being bibliographies, contain bibliographical information.

The main source of information has been the notes in the preface of "Catálogo abreviado de la Biblioteca Filipino de W. E. Retana" (see 36 in this list). Other sources have also been consulted, for instance, Emm. de Marquie: "Catalogue des bibliographies géologiques," Paris, 1896, and Henri Stein: "Manuel de bibiliographie générale." Paris, 1897. Reference has in all cases been made to the source of information. In the case of Stein, this only means that information has been found there; it has been necessary to copy the titles from other bibliographies. In all cases where a book has been found in Retana, reference has been given to its number there. When the book itself has been seen, * before the title is used to show that entry has been made directly from a copy.

It should be added that Mr. A. P. C. Griffin, of the Library of Congress, has prepared a list of books relating to the Philippines. It was prepared for the use of the members of the Philippine Commission, and not printed; but I understand that Mr. Griffin is constantly adding to the list, which may be published later on.

MAGAZINE PERPLEXITIES, III.

EVERYBODY'S MAGAZINE, N. Y .- THE ROYAL MAGAZINE, LONDON.

In September, 1899, there appeared Everybody's magazine, said to be published by Wanamaker, but bearing the imprint of "The North American Co., 74 East Ninth St., New York." This magazine is sold at ten cents, and is a popular illustrated monthly. No. 2 is dated October, No. 3, November, 1899, and with an attractive cover will doubtless prove popular with the public.

The "Royal magazine" is a London monthly illustrated periodical, published at three pence by Arthur Pearson, Ltd. No. 1 was issued under date of November, 1898. October, 1899, completed volume 2.

On looking over the first number of Everybody's magazine, the writer was immediately struck by the evident English appearance of the illustrations. Suspicious being thus aroused, a comparison of the two publications led to a discovery which may be of interest to librarians.

Everybody's magazine is using stories and articles from the Royal. In fact out of the twenty articles contained in the 104 pages of No. 1, thirteen are from various back numbers of the Royal magazine.

Unlike other American editions of English magazines the original plates are not used, but the text is reset, usually word for word.

The same picture cuts are, however, used, for they appear to be exactly alike in both periodicals. The thirteen duplicated articles in Everybody's magazine, No. 1, are from Nos. 6, 4, 2, 7, 4, 8, 1, 5, 1, 5, 7, 7, 7, respectively of the Royal.

In Everybody's, No. 2, there are twenty-one articles of which all but eight are republished from the Royal. They occur in Nos. 1, 9, 4, 8, 1, 11, 2, 10, 10, 11, 11, 4, 4, respectively. In giving these numbers we follow the order in which the articles appeared in Everybody's magazine. It will thus be seen that the American editor draws at random on the back numbers of Royal for material.

In Everybody's, No. 3, there are eighteen articles, of which five only are not found in Royal, vols. 1 and 2. In two of these five the same pictures are employed.

We note a few cases where the American has not exactly followed the English magazine. For example: In a story, "The coachman's daughter" in Everybody's, No. 2, for October, 1899, two illustrations are omitted which originally embellished the story in the Royal, November, 1898.

The few articles which have appeared only in Everybody's are most of them very short. The series of pictures of American college presidents is perhaps the most valuable American contribution.

A letter written the publishers of Everybody's asking in what English magazine some of the articles had appeared, elicited a rather tardy response, wherein it was stated: "So far as we know and believe, but one article printed by us has ever appeared in any American magazine. Some of them may have appeared in the Royal, of London. We are syndicating a great deal with certain English publishers."

It will be seen that this rather guarded statement reluctantly admits a possibility of a partial use of what was published in the Royal.

A letter to the Pearson Publishing Co., which issues the Royal, Pearson's, Pearson's weekly, Home notes, etc., brings the following prompt reply: "We furnish the entire contents, per arrangement, of Everybody's magazine, to the North American Company."

Thus we get at the truth concerning Mr. Wanamaker's new Everybody's magazine. F. W. F.

COLLATION.

There are two kinds of collation as applied to books.

- 1. "To bring together and compare. Examine critically, noting points of agreement and disagreement."

   Cent. Dict.
- 2. "In bookbinding, to verify the arrangement of, as the sheets of a book after they have been gathered. It is usually done by counting and inspecting the signatures at the foot of the first page of each sheet."

   Cent. Dict.

No. 2 is sufficient for new books without plates, bound from sheets, but no. 1 is the only thorough way to collate periodical sets, which are almost always second-hand, and usually irregular in issue.

The Boston Book Company, uses method no. I exclusively, thus guaranteeing its customers the receipt not only of all text, plates, title pages and indexes, but also of the extra numbers, supplements and illustrations often published but in many instances not called for in the contents, or in any way noted in the regular issues.

Such extras are often of great importance, as in the case of Transactions of the National Association for Promotion of Social Science, The Studio, Bookman (N. Y.), etc., etc.

The mere counting of the pages of the volumes is of little importance, without a critical examination and comparison of one set with another, and this few libraries are in a position to do. Is it safe to buy expensive sets without knowing whether they are complete or not? All our sets are examined and compared with others.

Special offer to a Small Library.

POOLE'S INDEX and LITTELL'S LIVING AGE.

We offer Poole's Index, 1882, in cloth, and Living Age, 1844-96, vols. 1-211, 144 vols. in two styles of binding, fresh as new, for $211.00.

(Vols. I-51 and 196-211 are new half buckram, sewed on tapes, extra strong. Vols. 52-195 are in half black leather, sound and nearly new.)

Littell's Living Age has published, during a weekly issue of over half a century, the most valuable articles from all the English periodicals. It will therefore be a fair substitute for these expensive reviews in any library which has Poole's Index. It is the most valuable "Poole set".

Poole's Index, third edition, indexes in one alphabet the articles published in the English and American periodicals from 1800 to 1882, and is the basis of all reference work in a small library.

(The three supplements to Poole are still to be had of publishers.)

Popular Periodical Sets.

Bulletin of Bibliography

Vol. 2

JANUARY, 1900

No. 2

This Bulletin is published, primarily, as a means of communication between the Boston Book Company and its customers. A constant endeavor will be made, however, to include in each issue enough original matter of sufficient value to induce librarians to preserve and bind up the numbers. Each volume will be provided with a title-page and an index.

No subscription price will be put upon the journal, and numbers will not be sold. It will be sent to a selected list of libraries, customers or likely to become customers of the Boston Book Company. The circulation of the Bulletin will be increased in proportion to the interest shown in it, and in the special work of the Library Department of the Boston Book Company. Correspondence is solicited, and should be addressed,

The Boston Book Company,

151/2 Beacon St., Boston, Mass.

EDITORIAL.

ART AND ARTISTS.

WE are glad to present as our leading article of this issue, the first portion of a children's reading list on art and artists by one of the Pratt Institute Library School graduates. It is a careful and thorough compilation, and will be a companion piece to the excellent "Animal List" recently published by the BULLETIN OF BIBLIOGRAPHY. We intend to issue the present list separately as Bulletin of Bibliography Pamphlet No. 8. (10 cents.)

ERRATA IN POOLE'S INDEX.

WE publish in this number certain corrections which we think many owners of Poole's Index will be glad to make in their copies of the work. We hope to continue this list in our April issue, by printing errata in the references. Many librarians we feel sure would welcome such a list; may we ask any one who has noted any errors in Poole to send them, even though the correct entry has not been discovered. It is desirable that the list should be as complete as possible before anything is published. Miss Frederika Wendte, of the periodical department, Boston Public Library, who has already noted many misprints, has consented to edit the list. Corrections may be sent direct to her, or to The Boston Book Company. We hope all who have noted errors will cooperate by sending list soon.

ERRATA IN POOLE'S INDEX AND SUPPLEMENTS.*

I. THE CHRONOLOGICAL CONSPECTUS AND ABBREVIATIONS; TITLES AND IMPRINTS.

BY FREDERICK W. FAXON.

In a work of the magnitude of Poole's Index it would be indeed surprising were not a few The cooperative typographical errors found. plan on which the volumes have been compiled makes the chance of error greater. The wonder really is that the mistakes are so few and insignificant.

In compiling lists of Poole periodicals I have found from time to time misprints, more or less important, in both the list of "Abbreviations, Titles, and Imprints," and the "Chronological Conspectus" of the various volumes of the Index. These two tables occur at the beginning of each of the volumes.

I print this list with the hearty approval of the present editors, and in the hope that librarians may use it in making the corrections in their copies of Poole's Index. Several of the errors here noted have been corrected in the more recent editions, but most libraries are still using copies purchased when first published.

* To be followed by a list of errata in the references; any library having noted such errors will please communicate with us. See Editorial, p. 21.

JUVENILE BIBLIOGRAPHY.

Griswold, W. M., Compiler. A descriptive list of books for the young. Cambridge. 1895. Octavo. Canvas. pp. vii., 175

A carefully selected and topically arranged work, which would be very useful in any public library. The volume closes with a list of children's books recommended by Mr. G. M. Jones, Librarian of the Salem Public Library.

HISTORY OF CALIFORNIA.

Hittell, Theodore H. History of California. San Francisco. 1898. 4 vols. Octavo. Cloth . 12.00

These four volumes, containing 3,461 pages, form a most comprehensive history of California. After many years of study and personal research, Mr. Hittell has recently completed what must hereafter be considered as the standard history of the State.

ENGLISH NEWSPAPER FILE, 1817-51.

We offer a nearly consecutive run of bound volumes of Manchester (England) Chronicle and Guardian. This period was one of great commercial activity, and covers the invention of the railway, the great development of mining, and the iron industry, etc. It is doubtful if such a file of old papers could be duplicated at any price.

We offer the 42 elephant folio volumes for $75.00.

IMPERFECT SETS.

Recognizing the importance of periodical literature in modern libraries, The Boston Book Company established its Library Department with the idea that a definite service could be rendered overworked librarians by an intelligent effort to supply them with sets of Periodicals and Society Transactions bibliographically complete and materially perfect.

Under the old method, librarians were forced to buy such sets or parts of sets as appeared in booksellers' catalogues, or were privately offered to them, taking their chances as to the completeness or perfectness of the sets. Before the publication of "Poole's Index" the shortcomings of such a mode of purchase were not apparent, because the deficiencies in sets so bought were not brought to special notice; but in these days of thorough indexing, the constant showing up of tantalizing defects obliges the conscientious librarian to assume the labor of collation, and the subsequent vexatious time and money cost involved in trying to make the defects good.

It is exactly this burdensome and wasteful labor which The Boston Book Company has endeavored to save librarians, by supplying only sets which have passed through the hands of a conscientious and carefully trained staff of collators.

We find, however, that some librarians still prefer to buy sets by the old method, and to such librarians we wish to make it known, that while we consider our method the economical and preferable one to libraries in the end, we are entirely willing to sell uncollated sets to such as prefer to buy them.

We have always a great many uncollated sets on hand (because conscientious collation is a tedious and time-consuming work), and we can offer them as cheaply as any other dealers. In such cases we will make an offer of the volumes actually on hand, but will not undertake to supply, as we do ordinarily, every page, index, supplement, appendix, plate, or map.

It is needless to say we shall do our best to supply any defects found by the purchasers of such sets; and with by far the largest stock of periodicals in the country, our chances of being able to furnish what is needed are excellent.

THE BOSTON BOOK COMPANY only asks that a fair comparison of price and quality be made, and is perfectly willing to sell to librarians by any method they may prefer.

Bulletin of Bibliography

Vol. 2

APRIL, 1900

No. 3

This Bulletin is published, primarily, as a means of communication between the Boston Book Company and its customers. A constant endeavor will be made, however, to include in each issue enough original matter of sufficient value to induce librarians to preserve and bind up the numbers. Each volume will be provided with a title-page and an index.

No subscription price will be put upon the journal, and numbers will not be sold. It will be sent to a selected list of libraries, customers or likely to become customers of the Boston Book Company. The circulation of the Bulletin will be increased in proportion to the interest shown in it, and in the special work of the Library Department of the Boston Book Company. Correspondence is solicited, and should be addressed,

> The Boston Book Company, 15 1/2 Beacon St., Boston, Mass.

EDITORIAL.

A notable contribution to this year's numbers of the Bulletin of Bibliography will be the "Cromwell Bibliography," the first part of which appears in our present issue.

Miss Wendté's reading list on the Paris exposition is timely and gives the principal magazine references to the great French fair.

We beg to remind our customers and readers that in May each year we make special reductions on all our stock, in order to clear as much as possible for stock-taking.

ERRATA IN POOLE.

We are glad to be able to correct so many errors, as we feel that the compilation will be of much assistance to librarians. We may remark here as showing the value of interviews or letters as compared with advertising, that we received one error as a result of our appeal in the January Bul-LETIN, while the rest have been secured by the personal effort of the Editor.

MASS. JUDICIAL HISTORY.

The Boston Book Company will publish in May or June, a history of the Judiciary of Massachusetts, including the Colony of New Plymouth, the Colony and Province of Massachusetts Bay, and the Commonwealth; by William T. Davis of Plymouth. This will be an interesting book for general readers, as well as for lawyers.

OLIVER CROMWELL.

An annotated list of books and articles for THE STUDY OF CROMWELL AND HIS TIMES.

Compiled by Mary Medlicott, of the City Library, Springfield, Mass., from bibliographies by J. H. Swann of Manchester, Eng., The Nottingham , Eng.) Library Bulletin, and other lists.

Carlyle professes to write for no other purpose than a mere elucida-tion of the text, but he has so far exceeded his professions as to frame the most powerful argument in behalf of Cromwell ever written... the chief strength and the greatest value of the book are in the original ers here collected, many of which were now for the first time published. — A dams.

On heroes, hero-worship, and the heroic in history. (Lecture 6. The hero as king: Cromwell, Napoleon.) [1840.] 1846.

Church, S. H. Oliver Cromwell; a history. 1894.

Oliver Cromwell. A history. . . Commemoration edition. 1899.

Not the work of a professional historian, but of a writer who takes a deep interest in one of the greatest characters of English history. Judged from this point of view it shows wide reading, and is written with spirit and enthusiasm . . the author is not sufficiently discriminating in his authorities. — Eng. Hist. Rev.

Clark, G. H. Oliver Cromwell. 1893.

Gives illustrations from old paintings and prints. Contains interesting quotations from, and references to, previous estimates of Cromwell.

Cornish, F. W. Life of Oliver Cromwell. 1884.

An attempt to give a concise and clear view of Cromwell and his times, while giving enough of detail and facts of social life to make a good picture of the period.

Cromwell, O. Memoirs of the Protector, Oliver Cromwell, and his sons, Richard and Henry. Illustrated by original letters, and other family papers. With portraits from original pictures. 1820. 2d ed. 1821. 2 vols.

The author's object was to vindicate the character of the Protector, and his work is valuable as containing copies of original letters and authentic portraits. — Firth.

Cromwell's signatures, plates of coats of arms, besides portraits and other pictures.

Firth, C. H. Oliver Cromwell. Dictionary of National Biography. Vol. 13. 1888.

Mr. Firth is not free from the biographer's weakness: his essays are too uniformly eulogistic in tone; but his knowledge of the original authorities is unusually accurate and comprehensive, and his careful ootes on Cromwell bibliography would alone make his article valuable. Altogether Mr. Firth has done an important piece of work in an excellent fashion. — Athenæum.

Fletcher, Henry. The perfect politician: or, a full view of the life and actions (military and civil) of O. Cromwell. Whereunto is added his character, and a compleat catalogue of all the honours conferr'd by him on several persons. 1660. 2nd edit. 1680.

The only early life of any value. - Firth.

Forster, John. Life of Oliver Cromwell. (Vols. 6 and 7 of Lives of eminent statesmen, in Lardner's Cabinet Cyclopadia.) 1839.

A work of considerable research, but written too much from the standpoint of the republican party. —'Firth.

Though Forster sympathized thoroughly with the Revolutionary movement, he condemns Cromwell severely for the part he took after the death of the king. As Carlyle is Cromwell's most able defender, Forster is perhaps his most able prosecutor. — Adams.

He confines himself to the judicious use of the material already contributed by others. - Athenæum.

Villemain, A. E. Histoire de Cromwell. 2 vols. 1819. The first foreign life of any value. - Firth.

Waylen, James. The house of Cromwell. . . A genealogical history of the descendants of the Protector, with anecdotes and letters [of Oliver Cromwell]. 1898.

Altogether it is a useful book, and should be considered as a necessary supplement to Noble's "Cromwell."—Eng. Hist. Rev.

Wilkinson, Spenser, editor. From Cromwell to Wellington: twelve soldiers. (Cromwell. By Lieut.-Col. Cooper King and the editor.) 1899.

Admirable military monograph. - A cademy. Wilson, Daniel. Oliver Cromwell and the protectorate. 1848.

Follows somewhat Carlyle's estimate and "elucidations" of Cromwell.

Note also the lives of Cromwell by John Morley, now appearing in the Century magazine, beginning with November, 1899; and by Theodore Roosevelt, in Scribner's magazine, beginning with December, 1899.

MAGAZINE PERPLEXITIES.—IV.

THE AMERICAN MAGAZINE, N. Y.

BY ALLAN B. SLAUSON, OF THE LIBRARY OF CONGRESS.

The American Magazine, published by the R. D. Boniface Publishing Company, New York, is likely to be perplexing to the binder. It was started as the American Home Magazine in May, 1898, and the first four monthly numbers were published under that title. In September, 1898, the title changed to "The American Magazine," Numbers 5 and 6 of Volume 1 bearing that title. It is in the second volume, however, that the perplexity begins. The issue for January, Number 3, counting the advertising pages, ends with page 339. The February number begins with page 511. Page 594 is followed by page 21, and by referring back to the beginning of the volume it is seen that this article had already appeared in the first number of volume 2, that for November, 1898. Then follow ten articles already printed in earlier numbers. The titles appear in the list of contents for February, but for the obvious reason just noted no page number is given. Sixty pages of old matter having been inserted, instead of returning to the old pagination, it continued 81, 82, etc. Counting the pages, including ads., to the end of the number, gives the figures 694. No March number was issued, but the first page of the April number bears the figures 758. The last page of this number, counting ads., would be 890, but the first page of the May number, the last of volume 2, begins with page 904. The same skipping of pages between numbers occurs throughout the third volume, June-November, 1899. Number 6 of the third volume is a double number in size, but contains no article that had not already appeared in previous numbers of this volume.

A letter to the publishers of the American Magazine regarding the discrepancies in paging, elicited the following reply: "There were no page numbers or volume numbers skipped."

ERRATA IN POOLE'S INDEX AND SUPPLEMENTS.

THE REFERENCES.*

Compiled by Frederika Wendté, Boston Public Library.

PART I.

The following list of errata in Poole and its supplements is compiled from reports made by seventeen libraries.

The great diversity in the reference work of these libraries is shown by the fact that of the one hundred and fifty titles here given but seventeen were duplicated.

One library reports that it is unable to find a reference from Poole, vol. 1, to "Transcendentalism" made to the "Dial," vol. 2, p. 83. This is the Boston "Dial" published from 1841-1844, and for which Margaret Fuller wrote. The Chicago "Dial" was not published until 1880.

In the records of errors were three from the Cumulative for 1897-1898, but it has been thought best to confine this list entirely to Poole and its supplements. However a supplementary list, in which the Cumulative will be included, may be published if this work of correction be continued, as it is to be hoped it will; * for any effort in this direction is of so much assistance in accurate reference work.

BOOKS ON SWEDEN, NORWAY, DENMARK AND ICELAND.

During May the two hundred remaining books of our Scandinavian collection (in English) will be sold off, singly or in lots, at or below cost. A list of these volumes, will be sent anyone desiring it. See page 32 of January Bulletin for a sample list. A discount of 33½ per cent will be given on any still unsold there mentioned.

ENGLISH NEWSPAPER FILE, 1817-51.

We offer a nearly consecutive run of bound volumes of Manchester (England) Chronicle and Guardian. This period was one of great commercial activity, and covers the invention of the railway, the great development of mining, the iron industry, etc. It is doubtful if such a file of old papers could be duplicated.

Forty-two elephant folio volumes at a great bargain if sold during May.

"POOLE, ABRIDGED."

A SUMMER duty to your library is to complete the sets to be indexed in

POOLE, ABRIDGED.

It is now in press, and to be published during the current year. It indexes thirty-seven (37) sets, from Vol. I. to Dec., 1899.

These sets will be in great demand, and will rise in price as soon as the book is ready. Now is the time to order, before the rush begins. Send to us for the list of sets to be included, that we may offer you the ones you lack. We shall quietly buy up, at present low prices, what we need to fill sets ordered. You can save your book fund by ordering now. Delivery and payment at your pleasure.

Bulletin of Bibliography

JULY, 1900 Vol. 2 No. 4

This Bulletin is published, primarily, as a means of communication between the Boston Book Company and its customers. A constant endeavor will be made, however, to include in each issue enough original matter of sufficient value to induce librarians to preserve and bind up the numbers. Each volume will be provided with a title-page and an index.

No subscription price will be put upon the journal, and numbers will not be sold. It will be sent to a selected list of libraries, customers or likely to become customers of the Boston Book Company. The circulation of the Bulletin will be increased in proportion to the interest shown in it, and in the special work of the Library Department of the Boston Book Company. Correspondence is solicited, and should be addressed,

The Boston Book Company, 15 1/2 Beacon St., Boston, Mass.

EDITORIAL.

Send us an order and we will mail the BULLETIN to your library for the coming year.

AN ABRIDGED POOLE.

An event of more than usual interest will be the publication, during the present year, of an ABRIDGED POOLE'S INDEX TO PERIODICALS, COMprising references to a selected list of sets. Some such work has long been needed, especially by smaller libraries, which could not afford the large index, or, if they were fortunate enough to possess it, could not buy many of the periodicals which it indexed.

Such a publication as the Abridgment now in press will be indispensable to the small library, and, from its one alphabet and more compact form, will be in demand in all public and college libraries where any reference work is done. (See page 49, back of front cover.)

OLIVER CROMWELL.

Histories, Memoirs, Collections.

Ashburnham, John. Narrative of his attendance on King Charles I. . . . To which is prefixed a vindication of his character and conduct. . . 1830. 2 vols.

A full narrative drawn up by him and shown to many of his con-A full narrative drawn up by him and shown to many of his contemporaries—Clarendon among the rest—remained unpublished until 1830, when his descendant, Lord Ashburnham, printed it with full elucidation, and accompanied it with a complete, caustic commentary on all the passages wherein Clarendon has made mention of the writer. The reputation of Ashburnham is cleared, and the treachery and malevolence of the noble historian are exposed with unsparing severity.—Dict. Nat. Biog.

Baillie, Robt. Letters and journals, 1637-1662. Ed. by D. Laing. 1841. 3 vols.

His "Letters and Journals" are for Scotland much what Pepys and Evelyn are for England. — Dict. Nat. Biog.

Balfour, Sir James. Historical works: Annales of Scotland (Vols. 3 and 4, 1641-1652). 1825. A valuable contemporary record. - Gardiner & M.

Baxter, Richard. Reliquæ Baxterianæ: or, Mr. Richard Baxter's narrative of the most memorable passages of his life and times. Faithfully published from his own original manuscript by Matthew Sylvester. 1686. Supplies the Presbyterian view of affairs, - Firth.

Throws light on the moral and social condition of the masses. — Gardiner & M.

Berkeley, Sir John. Memoirs, containing an account of his negotiation with Lieut-Gen. Cromwell . . . for restoring King Charles I. to the exercise of the government of England. 1826.

Birch, Colonel John, Parliamentary Governor of Hereford. Military memoir. Written by Roe, his secretary. With . . . commentary, notes and appendix, by the late Rev. John Webb. Edited by the Rev. T. W. Webb. Camden Society, N. S. 7. 1873.

Bisset, Andrew. History of the struggle for parliamentary government in England. 1877. 2 vols.

This work is the fruit of long and careful investigation, and is one of the strongest presentations of the case against the king ever published.—Adams.

- History of the Commonwealth of England. 1867. 2 vols.

Covers the years 1649-53, and is based on the Domestic State Papers. - Firth.

Mr. Bisset condemns Cromwell for the course he took in dissolving the Long Parliament, and thinks that much of the credit of the Protector's rule was due to the Council, and especially to the wisdom of Blake, for whom he entertains an extravagant and almost unbounded admiration. — Adams.

Bright, J. F. A history of England. (Vol. 2. 1485-1688.) 1887.

It is clear, careful and accurate  $\dots$  a book of solid rather than of brilliant qualities. — A dams.

Brodie, George. A [constitutional] history of the British Empire, from the accession of Charles I. to the Restoration . . . 1822. 4 vols.

While the author is a vigorous supporter of the Revolutionary policy, he condemns the course of Cromwell after the establishment of the Commonwealth. -Adams.

Burnet, Bp. G. The memoires of the lives and actions of James and William, Dukes of Hamilton and Castleherald, etc. In which an account is given of the . . . civil wars of Scotland . . . 1625 to 1652. 1677.

Burton, Thomas. Diary of Thomas Burton, Esq., member in the parliaments of Oliver and Richard Cromwell, 1656-1659. Ed. by J. T. Rutt. 1828. 4 vols.

Supplies materials for an account of Cromwell's relations with his parliaments. - Firth, Byington, E. H. The Puritan in England and New England. 1896.

Showing the causes which led to the emigration of the Puritans from England under Charles I.

Calendar of the proceedings of the Committee for Advance of Money. 1642-1656... Edited by M. A. E. Green. 1888. 3 vols.

A very valuable addition to the records of the Long Parliament and the Commonwealth. In addition to their primary value as financial records, these volumes contain a mine of information for the biographer and genealogist. — Eng. Hist. Rev.

Calendar of the proceedings of the Committee for Compounding, etc., 1643-1660. . . Edited by M. A. E. Green. 1889-92. 5 vols.

In August, 1644, the principle of compounding with delinquents began to be acted upon, but only as to prisoners, or those whose estates were already sequestered, and who, for the sake of liberty of person or lands, were willing to come to a compromise with the ruling powers, and sacrifice part of their estate to save the remainder.—Preface, Vol. 1.

Calendar of State Papers. Domestic series. 1640–1660. Edited (to 1649) by W. D. Hamilton; (to 1660) by M. A. E. Green. 1880–86. 20 vols.

Indispensable for a thorough study of the period.

Carlyle, Thomas. Historical sketches of notable persons and events in the reigns of James I. and Charles I. Ed. by Alex. Carlyle. 1898.

Carte, Thomas. History of the life of James, Duke of Ormonde, 1610–1688, wherein is contained an account of the most remarkable affairs of his time, and particularly of Ireland, under his government. 1736. 3 vols.

He labors to prove that the pretended commission given by Charles at Oxford (12 Jan., 1644-5) to Lord Glamorgan (Lord Herbert) for treating with the Irish catholics was a forgery of Glamorgan's. The book is still of value from the mass of materials which his diligence collected. — Dict. Nat. Biog.

Cary, Henry. Memorials of the Great Civil War. Edited from original letters in the Bodleian Library [Tanner MSS.]. 1842. 2 vols.

Cattermole, Richard. Great civil war of the times of Charles I and Cromwell. 1857.

With illustrations of men and events.

Charles I. Letters to Queen Henrietta Maria, in 1646. Ed. by John Bruce. Camden Soc. 1856. No. 63.

Christie, W. C. Life of Anthony Ashley Cooper, first Earl of Shaftesbury, 1621-1683. 1871. 2 vols.

Mr. Christie has undertaken the justification of one whose brilliant powers no one denies, but who is commonly held to have abused them for the basest of purposes. . He asks us to believe that Shaftesbury was not the double-dyed villain that he appears in the pages of Lord Macaulay and Lord Campbell. . Mr. Christie has been more successful in clearing Shaftesbury of great crimes than in giving a favourable impression of his general political conduct. — Sat. Rev.

Clarendon, E. H., Earl of. History of the Rebellion and Civil Wars in England.... Edited by W. D. Macray. 1888. 6 vols.

His admirable delineations of character and general ability as a writer have obtained for his History a reputation much beyond that deserved by its historic merits, the work having been really designed as an elaborate justification of the royalist party. — Gardiner and M. See also Rank's History, Vol. 6.

One of the greatest defects of Clarendon is his confused and careless chronology, due in part to a faithless memory, in part to the fact that he wrote much of his history far from the papers which would have enabled him to be more exact, and long after the events he was relating. The full extent of this inaccuracy is for the first time shown by Mr. Macray's annotations, but the disclosures can hardly be considered a disservice to Clarendon's reputation. — Eng. Hist. Rev.

Corbet, (Julian). Monk (English men of action). 1889.

It contains a succinct and able resume of the eventful era of the Civil War, of the rule of Cromwell, and of the Restoration, in which Monk was the conspicuous figure; and it sets his personality clearly before us in distinct relief and in true proportion. — Academy.

Douglas, (W. S.). Cromwell's Scotch campaigns, 1650-51. 1898.

Mr. Douglas has been able to bring under contribution some new sources of information, and possesses a far more complete knowledge of the ground over which Cromwell's army manceuvred than can possibly be acquired by a mere interloper from the south. — Eng. Hist. Rev.

Evelyn, (John) Diary. To which are added a selection from his familiar letters... Edited from the original MSS. by William Bray. A new edit... with a life of the author by Henry B. Wheatley. 1879. 4 vols.

Taken altogether, these Clarke Papers bring strongly out the conservative and hesitating side of Cromwell's character, whilst they also bring us, as we have never been brought before, into the very heart of that army, in the midst of which Cromwell lived and moved, and enable us to trace the movements of political thought which afterwards developed themselves in the constitutional experiments of the Commonwealth.—Gardiner.

— Life of Thomas Harrison, major-general in the army of the Commonwealth of England, and one of the Judges of King Charles I. 1893.

History of the Great Civil War, 1642-1649. 1883-93.
 10 vols.

Gives the fullest, most critical, and most authoritative account of the whole period. — Traill.

- History of the Commonwealth and Protectorate, 1649-1660. 1894-(Vols. 1 and 2).

Mr. Gardiner is to be specially congratulated on the appearance of Vol. I. of the last division of his great work... Only those, perhaps, who have had occasion to study minutely certain special aspects or portions of this period of history can realise how thoroughly the task is being performed: but with each succeeding volume his mastery of the period becomes more apparent, even to the general reader, in the luminous coherency of the narrative as a whole, not less than in the elucidation of many points hitherto obscure or dubious. — T. F. Henderson. Eng. Hist. Rev.

Student's History of England . . . to 1885. 1890-92.3 vols.

Green, J. R. History of the English people. (Vol. 3. Puritan England, 1603-1660.) 1879.

By far the most important general history of England that has ever been written. — Adams.

Short history of the English people. Vol. 3. Illustrated edition. 1893.

If Mr. Green's style has a fault, it is the rather unusual one of excess of brilliancy. . . The value of his book lies above all in the power it shows of conceiving a period as a whole, of tracing the causes and results of events, and of following the great currents of thought. — Sat. Rev.

History of Oliver Cromwell and the English Commonwealth. Trans. by A. R. Scoble. 1854. 2 vols.

The fairest and best account of the period for the general reader. The foreign politics and wars are admirably illustrated with a copious appendix of documents. — Green.

 History of Richard Cromwell and the restoration of Charles II. Trans. by A. R. Scoble. 1856. 2 vols.

— Memoirs of George Monk, Duke of Albemarle. Trans. and edited . . . by the Hon. J. Stuart Wortley. 1838. The volumes on Richard Cromwell and Monk are very full and satisfactory, and form an almost unique description of the difficulties and complications of the time. — Adams.

Hallam, Henry. The constitutional history of England from . . . Henry VII. to the death of George II. 1850. 2 vols.

Its judicial spirit of fairness to all persons and parties makes it popular with judicious minds, in spite of all its shortcomings. — A dams.

Hamilton papers; being selections from original letters (in the possession of the Duke of Hamilton and Grafton) relating to the years 1638-1650. Edited by S. R. Green. Camden Soc., N. S. 27. 1880.

Hammond, Col. Robert. Letters between R. H. and the Committee of Lords and Commons . . . relating to King Charles I. 1764.

Contains several of Cromwell's letters.

Hanbury, Benjamin. Historical memorials relating to the Independents or Congregationalists: from their rise to the restoration of the monarchy, A. D. 1660. 1839-44.

His most important literary service to his denomination was a digest of the materials for their earlier history, including a rich and accurate collection of documents illustrating the rise of nonconformity. — Dict.

Hannay, David. Admiral Blake. 1886. English worthies.

Deals with the navy and the wars of the Commonwealth period.

Harleian miscellany, vol. 8. Various papers concerning the times of Charles I. and Cromwell: Strafford's letter to the king; Archbishop Laud's speech on the scaffold, etc.

Historical Manuscripts Commission. (See reports on the MSS. of Lowndes, Verney, Dukes of Sutherland, Manchester, and Somerset, and Marquis of Ormonde.)

Historical memoirs of the Irish rebellion, 1641; extracted from parliamentary journals, etc. 1758.

A vindication of the Irish from the charges of disloyalty and cruelty to the English.

Hodgson, Capt. John, of Coley Hall, near Halifax. Autobiography. . . With notes by J. H. Turner. 1882.
His description of the battle of Dunbar is the most valuable portion of his "Autobiography." — Dict. Nat. Biog.

Holles, Denzil, Lord. Memoirs, 1641 to 1648. 1699 Another edit, 1826.

May be looked upon as a rejoinder to Ludlow. The production of a zealous royalist, during the time of his exile. — G. & M.

Hosmer, J. K. Life of young Sir Henry Vane, governor of Massachusetts Bay, and leader of the Long Parliament. With a consideration of the English Commonwealth as a forecast of America. 1888.

Students, perhaps, would rank Vane, among the men of his age and party, next to Cromwell, Hampden and Pym; but, to the majority of careless readers, his name probably hardly calls up any distinct memory or association. . The chapters which touch upon Vane's religious beliefs are very valuable. — Nation.

Hume, David. History of England. (Vols. 6 and 7.) 1793.

The portion relating to the reign of the Stuarts was the first written, and is, perhaps, the most faulty. . . Brodie, in his "Constitutional History," has shown the worthlessness of Hume's account of this period, and has made it plain that it is "a fictitious philosophy buttressed by a fictitious narrative."—Adams.

Huntingdon, Maj. R. Sundry reasons inducing Maj. R. H. to lay down his commission. Presented . . . August 2nd, 1648. 1826.

Hutchinson, Lucy. Memoirs of the life of Colonel Hutchinson, governor of Nottingham Castle and town. Edited by C. H. Firth. 1885. 2 vols.

Gives the views of the republican opposition. — Firth.
Throws much light on the conduct of the committees through which Parliament worked, and the machinery whereby it maintained its authority over the whole kingdom. — G. & M.

Journals of the House of Lords and House of Commons for the period.

Knight, Charles. Popular history of England. Vols. 3 and 4. 1856-62.

With the exception of Green, for the purposes of the general reader, (this) is probably the best history of England yet completed. Illustrations are excellent.—Adams.

Useful for information as to intrigues with the Catholics in England

Ludlow, Edmund. Lieutenant-General of the horse in the army of the Commonwealth. Memoirs. Edited by C. H. Firth. 1894. 2 vols.

Gives the views of the republican opposition. - Firth.

To Ludlow's Memoirs we are indebted for a good illustration of the Cromwellian policy in Ireland. - G. & M.

The reader has to be constantly on his guard against the drawback that much of Ludlow's narrative, though that of a deeply interested contemporary, is secondhand only. — Eng. Hist. Rev.

Markham, Sir C. R. Life of the great Lord Fairfax, commander-in-chief of the army of the Parliament of England. 1870.

A book of real and conscientious work.... Mr. Markham's chief object seems to be to challenge for Fairfax his proper place in the military history of the Civil War, in which he holds that [Fairfax's] fame has been unfairly overshadowed by the fame of Cromwell.— . Mr. Markham's chief Sat. Rev.

Marsden, J. B. History of the later Puritans. 1854.

His volumes deserve to be studied quite as much by such as are anxious about the future, as by those who content themselves with looking continually to the past. - Edinb. Rev.

Masson, David. Life of John Milton: narrated in connection with the political, ecclesiastical, and literary history of his time. 1871-94. 7 vols.

Thoroughness and impartiality are the qualities of highest value, perhaps, in this "Life of Milton." — Spectator.

Although Mr. Masson may not be an elegant historian, he is what is of infinitely greater importance — a singularly accurate and therefore an altogether trustworthy one. — Sat. Rev.

May, Thomas. Secretary to the Parliament. History of the Parliament of England which began November 3rd, 1640. 1647. Reprinted 1812, 1854, etc.

Fairly accurate and impartial. — Green.

His narrative, considering the period, is remarkably free from invective and rancour, and tends to induce the belief that the statements it contains are on the whole faithful and impartial. - G. & M.

ERRATA IN POOLE'S INDEX AND SUPPLEMENTS.

Compiled by Frederika Wendté, Boston Public Library.

PART II.

We continue the list of errata in Poole's Index and Supplements, and hope that in the next issue a still further list may appear. This is a cooperative work which should appeal to every librarian. The Carnegie Library, Pittsburgh, reports a curious error in the indexing of the "Art Journal." It appears that for the years 1877, 1878, 1879, the American edition was indexed in place of the English, and no note made to show the distinction; furthermore the English volume numbers for those years were used as if that edition were the one indexed. Many of the references are duplicated in the English edition, but the majority are not, and the references are so misleading that we add to the main list a supplementary one of the corrected references to these three volumes, which may help to straighten out the confusion between the two sets.

MAGAZINE PERPLEXITIES.-No. V.

"SCIENCE AND INDUSTRY," SCRANTON, PA.

By A. B. Slauson, Library of Congress.

THE evolution of the new engineering periodical, "Science and Industry," published by the Colliery Engineer Company, Scranton, Pa., is interesting, though the history of its growth is not easy to understand unless one has the complete file of the various publications of the company.

In February, 1896, was started a monthly magazine called "Home Study." In July, 1897, the publishers established three other magazines, "Home Study for Building Trades," "Home Study for Electrical Workers," and "Home Study for Machinists and Steam Engineers." The original "Home Study" changed its name in February, 1897, at the beginning of the second volume, to "Home Study Magazine," and also changed size from quarto to octavo. The four magazines were then published in octavo form each month until January, 1899. In that month "Home Study for Building Trades" changed its name to "The Building Trades Magazine." In February, 1899, the other three magazines were consolidated into two, the original "Home Study" being combined with certain features of "Home Study for Machinists and Steam Engineers," and published under the title of "Mechanic Arts Magazine." "Home Study for Electrical Workers," combined with the steam engineering features of "Home Study for Machinists and Steam Engineers," was then issued under the title, "Steam-Electric Magazine."

In November, 1899, the three existing magazines, "Mechanic Arts Magazine," "Building Trades Magazine," and "Steam-Electric Magazine," were all consolidated into one, under the title, "Science and Industry," the first number under this title carrying on the volume and number of the original "Home Study," as it had been carried through the various titles of "Home Study Magazine" and "Mechanic Arts Magazine," Vol. 4, No. 10, November, 1899. This volume ended with January, 1900.

A summary may well be appended in order to make this more easily understood:—

"Home Study," Vol. 1, Feb., 1896, to Jan., 1897.

"Home Study Magazine," Vols. 2, 3, Feb., 1897, to Jan., 1899.

"Home Study for Building Trades," Vol. 1—Vol. 2, No. 5. July, 1897, to January, 1899 (17 numbers).

"Home Study for Electrical Workers," Vols. 1, 2 (18 numbers), July, 1897, to Jan., 1899 (18 numbers).

"Home Study for Machinists and Steam Engineers," Vols. 1, 2 (18 numbers), July, 1897, to Jan., 1899.

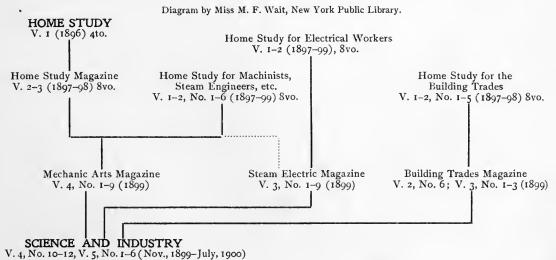

"Mechanic Arts Magazine" (continuation of "Home Study Magazine"), Vol. 4, Nos. 1-9, Feb. to Oct., 1899 (continued as "Science and Industry").

"Building Trades Magazine" (continuation of "Home Study for Building Trades"), Vol. 2, No. 6, Vol. 3, No. 3, Jan. to Oct., 1899.

PERIODICAL LITERATURE.

(Extracts from Chapter 8 of A Book for All Readers, by A. R. Spofford.)

"The librarian who desires to make the management of his library in the highest degree successful must give special attention to the important field of periodical literature. . . Whether a public library be large or small, its value to students will depend greatly upon the care and completeness with which its selection of periodical works is made and kept up from year to year.

"Nothing is more common in all libraries . . . than imperfect . . . sets of serials. . . . Nothing can be more damaging than to find the sets . . . broken at the very point where the reference or wants of those consulting them require satisfaction, . . . and the librarian who is not willing or able to devote the time and means requisite to complete files of periodical publications under his charge is to be censured or commiserated, according to the causes of failure. . . . In these publications . . . the collation of each part or number is imperative, in order to avoid imperfections which may be irreparable. . . .

"Reviews and magazines supply the largest fund of discussion concerning such topics of scientific, social, literary and religious interest as occupy the public mind during the time in which they appear. More and more the best thought of the times gets reflected in the pages of this portion of the periodical press. No investigator in any department can afford to overlook the rich stores contributed to thought in reviews and magazines. These articles are commonly more condensed and full of matter than the average books of the period. . . .

"The experience of librarians shows that the most sought-for and the most useful contributions to any subject are frequently found, not in the books written upon it, but in the files of current periodicals, or in those of former years.

. . . "The publication of Poole's Indexes to Periodical Literature has put the whole reading community on the quest for information to be found only (in condensed form, or in the latest treatment,) in these volumes of the periodical press. If a new library is to be formed, having no sets of periodicals on which to build, effort should be made to secure full sets from the beginning of as many of the prominent magazines and reviews, American and foreign, as the funds will permit. . . . But vigilant care must be exercised to secure perfect sets, as numbers are often mutilated, or deficient in some pages or illustrations. This object can only be secured by collation of every volume, page by page, with due attention to the list of illustrations, if any are published.

"Poole's Index to Periodical Literature . . . is literally invaluable and indispensable as an aid to research."

The Boston Book Company makes a specialty of supplying periodicals to Libraries, collated and perfect. It also will be glad to help librarians fill gaps in their sets. The largest stock in America and twelve years' experience in this difficult field are at your disposal if you write us.

Bulletin of Bibliography

Vol. 2

OCTOBER, 1900

No. 5

This Bulletin is published, primarily, as a means of communication between the Boston Book Company and its customers. A constant endeavor will be made, however, to include in each issue enough original matter of sufficient value to induce librarians to preserve and bind up the numbers. Each volume will be provided with a title-page and an index.

No subscription price will be put upon the journal, and numbers will not be sold. It will be sent to a selected list of libraries, customers or likely to become customers of the Boston Book Company. The circulation of the Bulletin will be increased in proportion to the interest shown in it, and in the special work of the Library Department of the Boston Book Company. Correspondence is solicited, and should be addressed,

EDITORIAL.

We desire, as the Fall business season opens, to say a few words about the rather special field covered by the Library Department of the Boston Book Company. We supply periodicals — using the term in its broadest sense — in sets, stretches and volumes. It is our desire to complete for libraries their periodical literature, supplying whole or partial sets, and guaranteeing perfection by careful expert collation. We have for the past eleven years done this with increasing success and feel that now our work cannot, in this special field, be approached by any firm that does not devote its entire time to serials. We handle not only American, but English and Continental sets as well.

This is the time of year when the expenditures for the next ten months are planned. Let this come to you as a reminder that no library year is complete without some set of periodicals completed, without some new set added to your present collection. The uniform development of a library demands this. We have nearly two-hundred and sixty complete sets in stock, and over ninety-thousand volumes, all periodicals, for you to choose from.

WRITERS FOR THE YOUNG.

Now that the gift-book is again upon us in force, it is interesting to note who provides it. For ten months out of the twelve we hear little or nothing of writers for the young, but in the eleventh and twelfth they enjoy something approaching a monopoly. As a rule they are industry incarnate. Mr. George A. Henty produces half-a-dozen boys' books a year; Mr. George M. Fenn is, if possible, more prolific still; Mr. David Ker appears smilingly at the Christmas season bringing his gifts of three or four rousing tales; and there are other writers, male and female, who may fairly be described as prodigies of diligence. "Seest thou a man diligent in business," says the Book of books, "he shall stand before kings." Such honor ought surely to be the portion of those who year by year provide so abundantly for the amusement and edification of boys and girls. From the point of view of two generations of school-boys, Jules Verne is the king of living story-tellers. As a writer in Chambers's Fournal well says, he has exploited the heavens and the earth for the material for his wonderful romances. "W. H. G. Kingston has also," continues the contributor to Chambers's, "filled a large place in the modern boys' library, and so has David Ker, who seems familiar with almost every available region of the world. Ascott R. Hope, clever and industrious as he has been, has never quite come to his own; neither has Andrew Home, Reginald Horsley, nor D. Lawson Johnstone, author of 'The Rebel Commodore' and other works. Max Pemberton, F. Wishaw, Bloundelle-Burton, Hugh St. Leger, and Frankfort Moore have all plenty of readers. Samuel Smiles is not a boys' writer in the ordinary sense; but there is enough backbone in his books to set up the present generation in the path of perseverance and well-doing. All the classics have been retold and simplified. Rose Selfe has given us Dante's Purgatory in 'How Dante Climbed the Mountain'; Mr. Church has retold the 'Iliad,' 'Odyssey,' and Greek tragedies; Plutarch, the King Arthur Legends, and Northern Sagas have not escaped; nor Shakespeare, as witness Lamb's 'Tales'; and we have also a selection called 'Tennyson for the Young.' But the story is still the thing, and romance and modern narrative gain the ear both of youth and old age. Sir Walter Besant, for instance, finds 'The Three Musketeers' as delightful now as when he sat in a corner, breathless, panting, and followed all a livelong holiday the fortunes of the immortal three who were four.' He asks of a story one thing - 'Seize me, and hold me with a grip of steel. Make me deaf and blind to all the world so long as I read in these enchanted pages. Carry me whither thou wilt. Play on me; do with me what thou Besant also finds wilt, at thine own sweet will.' that Mark Twain's 'Huckleberry Finn' has the distinctive character of a good story in that it pleases or rather seizes every period of life, and appeals to all ages and every age. It has no motive, no moral, and no plot, and yet the boy of twelve reads with delight as well as the older reader. But we have now only left ourselves space for a few particulars about the more modern story-tellers for young folks."

The writer in Chambers's touches on the works of Mr. Henty, Mr. G. M. Fenn, R. L. Stevenson, "Lewis Carroll," and Edward Lear. Mr. Henty, we learn, was born in 1832, but "did not graduate at Cambridge." His alma mater is "the rough and tumble school of experience into which he plunged when engaged in the Purveyors' Department in the Crimea. Later, as special correspondent of the Standard, he saw life in many aspects during the Austro-Italian and Franco-German wars; he was in the Abyssinian and Ashanti expeditions, and has written books about both campaigns. He was also with Garibaldi in the Tyrol. Probably as part justification of his own success as a novelist, as well as in his capacity of writer for the young, he has pointed out that scarcely one of the prominent novelists of the day is a university man, and women who know nothing of the classics write as good fiction as men. His experience while editing a shortlived boys' paper called the Union Fack has also led him to remark upon the lack of talent in composition conspicuous in the efforts of young people. Henty himself early excelled in composition, and wrote his first novel at twenty. He considered it very bad, and it was never published. He began to write for young people in this way: he used always to have his children with him for an hour after dinner, and would then tell them stories. These stories were continuous, and often lasted for weeks. It struck him one day that if his own young folks liked these tales, a larger public outside might also like This led him to write and then read one of his own stories, and when it was of the proper length he offered it to a publisher. promptly accepted, and Christmas would now hardly look like Christmas without one or two stories from his versatile pen."

Mr. Fenn has in his time been schoolmaster, private tutor, and journalist, and is of opinion that a "talent for writing is inborn." Has anyone ever doubted the fact? Of writers for girls special mention is made of Mrs. Molesworth and Mrs. L. T. Meade. The article is timely and interesting, and will be particularly relished at a time when the beneficent are thinking over the books that are presently to be bought for their young friends.

— Memorials of the English affairs; or, an historical account of what passed from the beginning of the reign of King Charles I. to King Charles II., his happy restauration. 1732.

One of the best accounts of the general home administration. Whitelocke was a man of acknowledged veracity and moderation of character, and his opportunities for observation in the important offices which he successively filled, and the fulness of his disclosures, render the work one of the highest authority for the period to which it relates. — G. & M.

BERMUDA IN PERIODICAL LITERATURE; WITH OCCASIONAL REFERENCES TO OTHER WORKS.

SERIES II., PART I.

A BIBLIOGRAPHY.

By George Watson Cole.

The following list is a continuation of that which has already appeared in this periodical (vol. 1, pp 52-54; 74-76), and like that contains only the titles of such articles as have passed under the compiler's eye. Especial effort has been made to render this supplementary list as complete as possible in articles dealing with Bermuda from a scientific standpoint. In order to do this, references are made to several works which are not periodicals, most of the articles, however, are by authors who have also contributed to the periodical literature of Bermuda.

In looking over this list, the reader will doubtless be struck by the frequent repetition of the names of John Matthew Jones, Sir John Henry Lefroy, and George Brown Goode. The first was the author of "The Naturalist in Bermuda," a pioneer work in its line, which has not inappropriately been compared with Gilbert White's "Natural History of Selborne. The Bermuda contributions of this "worthy naturalist" on various scientific subjects, some eighteen or twenty in number, cover the period from 1858-1884. Sir John Henry Lefroy, "sometime Governor of the Bermudas" (1871-77), merits the lasting gratitude not only of Bermudians but of every student of history for the very able manner in which he compiled and edited the colonial records of those islands. His contributions to the literature of Bermuda cover a variety of subjects dating from 1872-1884. George Brown Goode's writings upon the ichthyology of Bermuda began in 1874 and continued to 1884. In this latter year, these three gentlemen were instrumental in bringing out Bulletin No. 25 of the United States National Museum, entitled "Contributions to the National History of the Bermudas." Volume one, only, of this work was published. With this work, in which their names were jointly associated, ended their contributions relating to those islands. But others have entered the field of research and special monographs are appearing every year in increasing numbers and value.

During the spring of 1873 the "Challenger" Expedition visited Bermuda spending nearly a month in and about the islands. In the final reports of that Expedition are some eighty monographs upon zoology, in nearly one-half of which may be found descriptions of the various species collected at or near Bermuda. References to these reports have been included in this list.

The student of the colonial history of Bermuda, or of its trade and commerce should not forget to consult the "Parliamentary Papers" of Great Britain. They are rich in original matter on these subjects. Only a few references to some of the most important of these papers are given in the present list.

The compiler requests that anyone discovering omissions or errors will do him the favor to call his attention to the same in order that a future edition, which is in contemplation, may be made as full and as free from errors as possible.

MAGAZINE PERPLEXITIES.—No. VI.

MUNSEY'S MAGAZINE.

AMERICAN AND ENGLISH EDITIONS.

In November 1899 Mr. Munsey began the publication of an English edition of Munsey's Magazine. A word regarding the differences and similarities of the two editions would seem of use that libraries may not be misled in completing their files.

The English edition is printed and bound in New York and shipped to London. It is made up, according to a letter received from its publisher, "from the best in all the publications which Mr. Munsey is publishing [Puritan, Junior Munsey, Argosy], the best in all, that is, that is suited to an English audience." "The articles in the American Munsey not exactly suited to the English public are omitted and the places filled by selections from the Puritan and Junior Munsey." We have selected at random for comparison the April, 1900, numbers of "The Munsey," New York and London editions.

The covers are the same except that on one is "price sixpence," the other "ten cents." Both are vol. 23, no. 1, and carry the same illustration. Inside we find no advertisements at all in the English copy. Of text the American issue has pages, 1-144; the English, pages 1-160. The frontispiece of the English copy occurs on page 6 of the American number. The first article is from the Puritan for April, beginning there at page 26.

The second English article is in the American Munsey at page 81, not 13. It seems to have been reset. The pictures are in different order and little changes are made to make the text intelligible to the Englishmen. For example on page 14 we find "blue-coated policeman," where the article in the home edition reads simply "bluecoat."

Again, whole paragraphs are omitted or written over, and at times illustrations are left out. In continued articles illustrations are used in one installment which originally appeared in another. In short, the number is quite different from its American namesake, yet no library would wish to take the English edition if it were already a subscriber to the American.

In passing we may note that a portrait, called Captain Kaempff, on page 88 of the English edition for April, 1900, appears in the New York issue of May, 1895, as Captain Barends. The fact that Poole's Index includes the New York issue should deter even English libraries from subscribing to the English edition, just as in the case of the Strand and Pearson's Magazine our American libraries should insist on original editions only.

It is much to be regretted that the same title and volume numbering should be kept when, in reality, two different magazines are issued. In this connection, it is only fair to mention the fact that the publishers of the English Illustrated Magazine have for their American edition changed the name to New Illustrated Magazine.

POOLE'S INDEX ABRIDGED.

What it Includes; its Advantages to Libraries.

It is not now expected that the ABRIDGED POOLE will be published until May 1, 1901. The price, though not yet announced, will hardly be over $10.00, and may be less if the advance orders justify it. Every library needs this volume. Let us book your order now for an early copy.

The unexpected delay in publication will really be an advantage to libraries, since more time will be given for the completing of the broken files of the sets to be indexed. The publication will undoubtedly cause a rise in price on the sets indexed, as all are largely "out-of-print," and must be gotten together by long and persistent search. We have anticipated this demand, and laid in a good stock of the periodicals to be indexed in the Abridgment, and can on request make you favorable quotations upon nearly all. We will send you a check-list of the thirty-seven serials to be indexed if you desire us to estimate for you on any.

Scope and Use.

For the information of those who have not seen our former circulars, we say here that Poole's Index Abridgment covers all the subjects treated in the thirty-seven sets most commonly in our smaller American libraries. It covers these sets from first publication to the end of 1899, and in one alphabet, in one volume. It will admirably meet the needs of small and growing libraries, where the prospect of having all the "Poole" periodicals is very poor. It will cover what they have, or can readily get; it will answer all ordinary reference questions.

For large public, and college libraries its use will be constant on account of the ease of reference (one place to look instead of seven), and because the ABRIDGMENT will answer all ordinary demands.

Order now, and send to us for a check-list of sets to be included in

This Bulletin is published, primarily, as a means of communication between the Boston Book Company and its customers. A constant endeavor will be made, however, to include in each issue enough original matter of sufficient value to induce librarians to preserve and bind up the numbers. Each volume will be provided with a title-page and an index.

No subscription price will be put upon the journal, and numbers will not be sold. It will be sent to a selected list of libraries, customers or likely to become customers of the Boston Book Company. The circulation of the Bulletin will be increased in proportion to the interest shown in it, and in the special work of the Library Department of the Boston Book Company., Correspondence is solicited, and should be addressed,

The Boston Book Company, 15½ Beacon St., Boston, Mass.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

At the threshold of a new century, we pause to wish all our readers happiness and prosperity. Thanking our many library friends for past patronage, we promise to continue to use our best efforts to satisfy the most exacting, and to make more than ever synonymous the phrases "Boston Book Company" and "Collected and perfected sets of periodicals."

THE BULLETIN OF BIBLIOGRAPHY begins the twentieth century with the assurance that its quarterly visits have been welcome and its contents useful in many libraries. Contributions of a bibliographical nature, suitable for its pages will be gratefully received. Its circulation is confined to libraries, its mission is primarily to advertise the business of the Boston Book Company. An order now and then from its pages will ensure its receipt regularly, and render its continuance certain.

The most important events in the bibliography of serials this year will be the publication of an Abridged Poole's Index, and an Index to theological serial literature. Is your library prepared to use these books to the best advantage—that is, have you the sets that will be indexed by them?

LIST OF FICTION IN THE FRENCH LANGUAGE, CONTAINED IN THE REVUE DES DEUX MONDES, 1856-1899: 2e PERIODE, v. 1-108; 3e PERIODE, v. 1-156.

(Stories which do not extend over more than one number of the Revue are not included.)

STOCK-TAKING REDUCTIONS

Until May 10, we offer libraries nearly all our sets at a discount from our regular prices, which will make them more reasonable than similar ones from any other dealer. We do not ordinarily claim more than "better service and goods for the same price." This time we claim better stock and lower prices. Write us before May 10 and we will quote you prices to prove this statement.

Nearly 200 American and English Complete Sets on Hand.

Please notice a few prices below on sets recently offered in the market at much higher figures.

If you have any portion and want the completing volumes, we can give you information as to prices and scarcity.

If you have a chance to buy a portion cheap, let us tell you whether the set can be completed, or whether it would not be advisable to await a chance to buy all at once. We can save you many dollars if we may have your confidence.

Bulletin of Bibliography

Vol. 2 APRIL, 1901

This Bulletin is published, primarily, as a means of communication between the Boston Book Company and its customers. A constant endeavor will be made, however, to include in each issue enough original matter of sufficient value to induce librarians to preserve and bind up the numbers. Each volume will be provided with a title-page and an index.

No subscription price will be put upon the journal, and numbers will not be sold. It will be sent to a selected list of libraries, customers or likely to become customers of the Boston Book Company.

The circulation of the Bulletin will be increased in proportion to the interest shown in it, and in the special work of the Library Department of the Boston Book Company. Correspondence is solicited, and should be addressed,

The Boston Book Company, 151/2 Beacon St., Boston, Mass.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

- I. ABRIDGED POOLE'S INDEX.
- 2. STOCK-TAKING BARGAINS.
- 3. UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO STUDIES.
- 4. A NEW HISTORICAL WORK.

THERE are four matters of importance to bring to the attention of our readers at this time.

First. The Abridged Poole's Index will be issued soon, and before we send out another number of the Bulletin of Bibliography. Librarians should see that we have their orders for this volume at once. Gaps in the sets indexed should be filled now, for prices will go up when the volume is issued, as the demand will be much increased. See opposite page.

Second. This is our annual "stock-taking time," and we desire to reduce stock as much as To do this we each year make practically cost prices on many sets. See advertising pages in this number for a selection of many such bargains.

Third. The Boston Book Company has become United States agent for the University of Toronto Studies, and henceforth all United States orders for these should be sent to 15 1/2 Beacon Street, Boston. See back cover of this number for present list.

Fourth. The "History of the Judiciary of Massachusetts" is a historical reference book that all public library's will find of value. An extended notice will be found on page 112.

THE EFFICIENCY OF "POOLE" INCREASED.

REFERENCES TO SELECTIONS FROM THE "EDINBURGH REVIEW," COMPARED WITH THE ARTICLES AS ORIGINALLY ISSUED.

By Frederika Wendté, of the Boston Public Library.

Poole, in the first volume, third edition, 1882; indexes "Selections from Edinburgh review." 6 volumes, Paris. As a rule the smaller libraries do not possess this file, and so some valuable reference matter must sometimes be lost for in many instances there is no way of telling from which volume of the "Edinburgh review," the articles in the "Selections" have been taken.

To overcome this difficulty the following list of the blind references has been compiled.

A Book for Libraries, and Historical Students.

History of the Judiciary of Massachusetts, including the Plymouth and Massachusetts Colonies, the Province of Massachusetts Bay, and the Commonwealth, by WILLIAM T. DAVIS, of Plymouth; cloth, $3.00, net.

The book contains an historical account of the rise and development of the judicial system of the State, from its first settlement to the present time, with brief biographical sketches of the judges and principal court officers. The number of these sketches is indicated by the fact that the Index of Names contains two thousand entries. These sketches, alone, give to the work a permanent biographical value.

The Appendices contain the Patents and Charters of the Colonies and Province, to show the foundation upon which our judicial system was built. Published by

Removal Sale.

During July and August we shall remove our business to other and more commodious quarters in the suburbs of Boston. The expense of transferring our immense stock will be large, and in order to reduce that item as much as possible, we offer a special price to our library customers on all sets. The larger the order the bigger discount we will make.

NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY.

We omit mention of the common "Poole" sets because every library knows that we always have those on hand. Write us for what you want. Prices will be made exceptional to clear off as many of these as possible. See pages 115, 116, 117, 118, 127.

THE BOSTON BOOK CO.

Bulletin of Bibliography

Vol. 2 JULY, 1901 No. 8

This Bulletin is published, primarily, as a means of communication between the Boston Book Company and its customers. A constant endeavor will be made, however, to include in each issue enough original matter of sufficient value to induce librarians to preserve and bind up the numbers. Each volume will be provided with a title-page and an index.

No subscription price will be put upon the journal, and numbers will not be sold. It will be sent to a selected list of libraries, customers or likely to become customers of the Boston Book Company. The circulation of the Bulletin will be increased in proportion to the interest shown in it, and in the special work of the Library Department of the Boston Book Company. Correspondence is solicited, and should be addressed,

> The Boston Book Company, 15 1/2 Beacon St., Boston, Mass.

EDITORIAL.

REMOVAL TO NEW STORE.

THE BOSTON BOOK COMPANY after more than twelve years in Freeman Place Chapel, is about to move to a place better adapted to its growing business needs.

Our periodical stock is the largest in the country, probably as large as all other dealers' collections of this nature combined. The expense of moving though heavy, will, we think, be justified by the increased facilities we shall secure for handling the business. Still if we can sell off much stock to our library customers during July at a substantial reduction from usual prices it will save much expense to us, and, at the same time, please them.

Therefore, it will pay all to look over our lists in this number carefully and to write us at once about periodical sets needed which are or are not here noted.

THE ABRIDGED POOLE'S INDEX.

The publication date of "Poole's Index Abridged," though delayed, will probably be sometime early in July. The volume will be larger than one of the five year supplements to Poole. The price has been fixed by the publishers at $12.00. Order a copy now through The Boston Book Company.

Best Editions of Robert Browning

Compiled by Elvira Lucile Bascom.

One of the practical difficulties that the librarian meets in the selection of books is the difficulty of determining appropriate editions. Even librarians who are skilled in weighing the merits of competing editions are unable to do so, because they are at a distance from book centers.

I am making an attempt to relieve this difficulty to a certain degree by compiling a series covering the best editions of about fifty standard authors. The first of the series treats of Ralph Waldo Emerson, and may be found in the twelfth annual report of the New York State Library School. The following Browning list is the second of the series. I have been promised the coöperation of able librarians in covering other authors. Criticisms of the various lists as they appear will be gladly received. The selection of editions in the Standard Library of the Providence Public Library, issued in pamphlet form, is of great service to librarians. The advantage of the projected series lies in the choice of editions which it offers, and in the fact that all included are in print.

SALOME CUTLER FAIRCHILD.

WRITINGS

BIBLIOGRAPHY

Wise, Thomas J. Materials for a bibliography of the writings in prose and verse of Robert Browning. 269 p. In Nicoll, W. R. and Wise, T. J. Literary anecdotes of the nineteenth century. v. 1. Dodd $8.

This bibliography first appeared, in briefer form, in the Athenæum at irregular intervals from 1894 to 1897. It is much more complete than the two following, but not so accessible to the average library. The edition is limited to 1000 copies.

Orr, Mrs. Alexandra (Leighton). Chronological bibliography of Browning's works. 29 p. In Orr, Mrs. Alexandra (Leighton). Handbook to the works of Robert Browning. Macmillan $1.75.

Shorter biography

Sharp, William. Life of Robert Browning. 219 p. O. Scribner $1. (Great writers)

Contains a bibliography which is much briefer than Wise's, lacks the advantage of selection as found in Cooke's, though fuller, and is not so nearly up to date as Mrs. Orr's list.

Biographic collateral

Browning, Robert, & Browning, Mrs. E. B. (Barrett). Letters, 1845-1846. 2 v. 2 por. 2 fac-sim. O. Harper $5.

Browning, Mrs. Elizabeth Barrett (Barrett). Letters; ed. by F. G. Kenyon. 2 v. 2 por. 1 pl. 1 fac-sim. D. Macmillan $2.50.

INTERPRETATIVE WORKS

These are chosen as the most surely interpretative and the best adapted for ready reference. For students of Browning the following, containing both interpretative and critical matter, will be of value: J. T. Nettleship's Robert Browning, essays and thoughts; James Fotheringham's Studies of the mind and art of Robert Browning; Henry Jones' Browning as a philosophical and religious teacher; Hiram Corson's Introduction to the study of Robert Browning's poetry; London Browning society papers (from which a volume of Browning studies, edited by Edward Berdoe, is reprinted); Boston Browning society papers; articles in Poet lore; Browning study programmes by Charlotte Porter and Helen Clarke.

Orr, Mrs. Alexandra (Leighton). Handbook to the works of Robert Browning. 420 p. D. Macmillan $1.75.

Classifies the poems under ten groups and gives brief arguments of each. No explanation of allusions.

Cooke, George Willis. Guide-book to the poetic and dramatic works of Robert Browning. 451 p. O. Houghton $2.

Alphabetic arrangement of titles, characters, allusions and well-known quotations, with fairly full information Now incorporated in introduction and notes of 1899. Riverside edition. Berdoe, Edward. Browning cyclopedia; a guide to the study of the works of Robert Browning. 572 p. O. Macmillan $3.50.

Arranged like Cooke, but covering a larger field. Gives full arguments, explanation of allusions, historical information, etc.

Concordance

Molineux, Marie Ada. Phrase book from the poetic and dramatic works of Robert Browning. 520 p. O. Houghton $3.

An alphabetic list of phrases and a one-word index, with references to the 1891 Riverside and the Cambridge editions. Except for Asolando and four short poems, references are correct for the 1899 Riverside edition.

PICTORIAL REPRESENTATION

Portrait

Watts, G. F. artist. Frederick Keppel & Co., 20 E. 16th st., New York.  $9\frac{1}{2} \times 11\frac{3}{4}$  in. \$4.50.

For farther information regarding portraits of Browning, see three illustrated articles by W. M. Rossetti in Magazine of art, 1890, p. 181-88, 246-52, 261-67.

Bust

Correspondence with prominent art firms in this country and England leads to the belief that no reproductions of the busts of Browning have been made. There are at least three busts in existence, those by Robert Barrett Browning, William Wetmore Story and Henrietta Montalba.

FOR SALE BY

THE BOSTON BOOK COMPANY, BOSTON, U. S. A.

JUST PUBLISHED. A Book that every Library in the United States should have.

THE EARLY TRADING COMPANIES OF NEW FRANCE.

A Contribution to the History of Commerce and Discovery in North America.

By H. P. BIGGAR, B. LITT. (Oxon.).

Half morocco. Price, $4,00 net. 310 pp.

This work is the result of many years' labor among the manuscript collections of Europe that contain records of the earliest voyages to America. It was originally submitted as a thesis for the author's research degree in the University of Oxford. Subsequently it was revised and enlarged, and is now a complete history of early French colonizing effort in America based upon an examination of all the available material, manuscript and otherwise. In both France and Spain the author has discovered much that is new. He devotes special attention to the French voyages to the new world of the sixteenth century. The fur trade and the fisheries are discussed very fully, as is also the history of the earliest French settlements in North America. The history ends with the organization of the great Company of One Hundred Associates.

A special feature of the volume is the Appendix, containing an enumeration and criticism of sources for the period. These are arranged in three classes: (1) Official documents; (2) Narrative sources; (3) Anonymous pamphlets. The appendix of sources occupies more than one-third of the whole volume.

Only 600 copies of this work have been printed, of which not more than 550 are for sale.

Orders should be sent to

THE BOSTON BOOK CO., Freeman Place Chapel, Boston.

Manager Library Department.

(Telephone - Brookline 424.)

This Bulletin is published, primarily, as a means of communication between The Boston Book Company and its customers. A constant endeavor will be made, however, to include in each issue enough original matter of sufficient value to induce librarians to preserve and bind up the numbers. Each volume will be provided with a title-page and an index.

No subscription price will be put upon the journal, and numbers will not be sold. It will be sent to a selected list of libraries, customers or likely to become customers of The Boston Book Company. The circulation of the Bulletin will be increased in proportion to the interest shown in it, and in the special work of the Library Department of The Boston Book Company. Correspondence is solicited, and should be addressed,

EDITORIAL.

WE are open for business in our new and larger quarters, 83 to 91 Francis Street, Back Bay, Boston. Moving a stock so large as ours has been a long undertaking, and we hope our many friends will pardon any delays that have occurred during the summer in the filling of their orders.

Librarians coming to Boston are cordially invited to visit our new store, and should take a Brookline Huntington Avenue electric car to the corner of Francis Street.

Our telephone is "BROOKLINE 424" for those who cannot come out; we have telephone connection with our Law Department's retail office in Barristers' Hall, 15 Pemberton Square, and shall be glad to meet there by appointment our customers.

Now is the time to think of filling up reference sets of periodicals. May we not hear from all our readers this Fall?

NOTE. — Sonnet LX., p. 68-69, which originally appeared in the author's "Certaine Learned and Elegant Workes," published in London in 1633, contains the following allusions to Bermuda: —

Who euer sailes neere to Bermuda coast, Goes hard aboord the monarchy of Feare Where all desires — but life's desire — are lost: For wealth and fame put off their glories there.

Yet this ile poyson-like, by mischiefe knowne, Weanes not Desire from her sweet nurse, the sea; But vnseene showes vs where our hopes be sowne, For, who will seeks the wealthe of westerne sunne, Oft by Bermuda's miseries must runne.

MAGAZINE PERPLEXITIES.

A FURTHER NOTE ON "OUR DAY."

SINCE the statement regarding Our Day in BULLETIN OF BIBLIOGRAPHY for July, 1899, we have noted these facts:

January, 1899, number came, but in vain we waited for the February number. In due course of time the March number appeared, then followed in slow succession the May, July and September numbers calling themselves vol. 18. nos. 1, 3, 5, 6, 9. Evidently Our Day felt at this juncture it needed an additional month's rest, as it did not appear again until December, which number called itself vol. 18 no. 12. After repeated inquiries we were calmly told the missing numbers were never published, although we had paid for the full year with the understanding that it was to be a monthly. The pagination was continuous throughout the year.

Our Day can easily apply the quotation:

"Variety is the spice of life; That gives it all its flavor."

It evidently has thought better of its hop, skip and jump fashion of doing things, for it struts serenely through the year 1900, coming monthly.

The January number for 1901 is about twice the regular size, evidently despising the day of small things, and since then the periodical has come regularly in its larger size.

THE EARLY TRADING COMPANIES OF NEW FRANCE.

A Contribution to the History of Commerce and Discovery in North America.

By H. P. BIGGAR, B. LITT. (Oxon.).

Half morocco. Price, $4.00 net. 310 pp.

This work is the result of many years' labor among the manuscript collections of Europe that contain records of the earliest voyages to America. It was originally submitted as a thesis for the author's research degree in the University of Oxford. Subsequently it was revised and enlarged, and is now a complete history of early French colonizing effort in America based upon an examination of all the available material, manuscript and otherwise. In both France and Spain the author has discovered much that is new. He devotes special attention to the French voyages to the new world of the sixteenth century. The fur trade and the fisheries are discussed very fully, as is also the history of the earliest French settlements in North America. The history ends with the organization of the great Company of One Hundred Associates.

A special feature of the volume is the Appendix, containing an enumeration and criticism of sources for the period. These are arranged in three classes: (1) Official documents; (2) Narrative sources; (3) Anonymous pamphlets. The appendix of sources occupies more than one-third of the whole volume.

Only 600 copies of this work have been printed.

Orders should be sent to the United States Agents,

THE BOSTON BOOK CO., 83-91 Francis St., Back Bay, Boston.

Bulletin of Bibliography

Vol. 2

JANUARY, 1902

No. 10

This Bulletin is published, primarily, as a means of communication between The Boston Book Company and its customers. A constant endeavor will be made, however, to include in each issue enough original matter of sufficient value to induce librarians to preserve and bind up the numbers. Each volume will be provided with a title-page and an index.

No subscription price will be put upon the journal, and numbers will not be sold. It will be sent to a selected list of libraries, customers or likely to become customers of The Boston Book Company. The circulation of the Bulletin will be increased in proportion to the interest shown in it, and in the special work of the Library Department of The Boston Book Company. Correspondence is solicited, and should be addressed,

The Boston Book Company, 83-91 Francis St., Back Bay, Boston, Mass.

EDITORIAL.

THE COMPLETION OF VOLUME TWO.

VOLUME TWO of the BULLETIN OF BIBLIOGRAPHY is completed with this issue, and the title and index is herein included as a part of the number, yet easily removable without injury to itself or the number. Ten quarterly numbers constitute the volume.

A SPECIAL WORD TO LIBRARIANS.

It is now five years since we began the publication of the Bulletin of Bibliography, and we take this opportunity of publicly thanking our many library friends for the manner in which they have received our publication. We especially wish to thank those whose contributions have made it possible to keep the Bulletin up to the standard originally set for it. Nor can we forget our gratitude to those who by ordering freely from our advertising pages have made possible the quarterly issue of the Bulletin of Bibliography during so long a period.

We intend to continue the publication, and ask your cooperation to the extent of a careful examination of the advertising pages when the numbers arrive, and before they are filed.

We try to mail the numbers so that the whole United States will have an equal chance to secure desired items, and we have now adopted the plan of putting on the cover page of every number the day of issue, that all may be sure their numbers have not been unduly delayed.

We are sure that we can be of much service in the field of Periodicals to all libraries, and were not New Year's resolutions so soon broken, we would venture to suggest that you make one to write us whenever any point about a magazine comes up for answer, — peculiar paging, extra plates, supplements, titles, price or scarcity, anything in short which relates to the publications. We have a large experience, nearly fifteen years, in this single field and can doubtless help you. While we desire your orders, and know we can do better by you in price and condition than any one else, we will gladly give you the benefit of our bibliographic records at any time.

BACK NUMBERS OF THE BULLETIN.

WE send out each quarter practically the entire edition of the BULLETIN OF BIBLIOGRAPHY. Our regular customers get it regularly, others occasionally, the mailing list being varied from time to time. If you desire it regularly, please write us and send a small order.

We cannot supply back numbers to fill broken sets, but have a few full sets which we have bound in a neat olive buckram and placed on sale.

The two volumes may be had for $1.50 each, cases for binding can be supplied at 50 cents each.

COMMENT ON TEXT OF VOLUME TWO.

THE most notable long contribution to the present volume is the Bibliography of Bermuda. The many errors corrected in Poole's Index should make this volume of much value to all libraries doing reference work.

Our series of Best Editions of Standard Authors, prepared under the auspices of Mrs. Fairchild of the State Library at Albany, will be found very useful, and we hope to continue the series in volume three.

The need of a correspondence course in Library Science has been filled by the splendid compilation in our present issue by the Pratt Institute Free Library. We have issued this separately in our BULLETIN OF BIBLIOGRAPHY PAMPHLETS series, and offer it for 10 cents in that form.

Lefroy, in his Botany of Bermuda, says:—"Grisebach notes about 18 West Indian plants as natives of Bermudas in his flore of the British West Indian plants as natives of Bermudas in his flora of the British West Indian Islands, 1864, but had evidently very imperfect information before him."—p. 45.

near the Bermudas and saw for the first time the protoype of the great American sea-serpent. His description, which occurs at p. 240, is as follows:—
"When we came in the helght of Bermuda, we discouered a monster in the sea, who shewd himselfe three times vnto vs from the middle vpwards, in which parts hee was proportioned like a man, of the complection of a Mulato, or tawny Indian. The Generall did commaund one of his clearks to put it in writing, and hee certified the King and the Nobles thereof."

CHAMPLAIN, Samuel. Narrative of a voyage to the West Indies and Mexico in the years 1599–1602. (1859). 3l. + 4 + vi. + xcix. + 48 pp.

NOTE.—Mention is made of Bermuda, near which Champlain sailed on his return voyage, at p. 46-47. This passage is quoted by Lefrov in his Memorials, vol. 2, p. 572. The text calls for a figure of Bermuda, the first of which we have any record, unfortunately this is lacking in the original.

MARKHAM, Sir Clements R., editor. Voyages of Sir James Lancaster, Kt., to the East Indies during the seventeenth century; preserved in the India Office. Vol. 56 (1877).

Note. — Barker's narrative of the first voyage of Sir James Lancaster, p. 1-24. May's narrative, p. 25-34. Both these narratives contain references to Bermuda, p. 20, 32-34.

LEFROY, Sir John Henry, editor. The historye of the Bermudaes or Summer Islands. From a MS. in the Sloane collection, British Museum. Vol. 65 (1882). [viii.] + xii. + 327 pp. 3 plates, I woodcut, and I map.

OTE. — Lefroy was of the opinion that this work was written by Captain John Smith. It is entered under "Smith" in the British Museum Catalogue with this note: "Attributed in the introduction to John Smith, but written by Captain N. Butler." Butler was one of the early governors of Bermuda, Butler." Butler was one of the early governors of Bermuda, under the Bermuda Company, and from his knowledge of the islands was much better qualified to write concerning them than Captain Smith who never visited them. In 1892 "Mr. Edward Scott, keeper of MSS. in the Museum, while cataloguing the Sloane collection, came upon a MS. in the same handwriting as 750 (the above "Historye of the Bermudaes"), signed by Nathaniel Butler. This MS. [is] numbered 758... A comparison of the two MSS. establishes the fact of the identity of the handwriting." — Athenaum, Dec. 24, 1892, p. 891. Thus the authorship of this work is definitely settled.

VESPUCCI, Amerigo. Letters and other documents illustrative of his career; [translated and edited] by Clements R. Markham. Vol. — (1894). xliv. + 121 + 16 pp.

OTE. — The editor attempts to disprove Varnhagen's theory that the island of Ity, mentioned in Vespucci's first letter, was Bermuda. Fiske in his Discovery of America (Bost., 1892) vol. 2, p. 52-92, supports Varnhagen.

NOTE.—Bermuda tripoli is a polishing powder obtained at Bermuda Hundreds, Va. In the laws of the Bermuda Company, passed February 6, 1621 o.s., Section 212, it was provided that in view of the scarcity of land in Bermuda a grant should be made to the Bermuda Company of land in Virginia.

UHLER, Philip H. Observations on the Insects of the Bermudas. p. 152-158.

NOTE. -Fifteen species are here described. "But few insects have hitherto been recorded from this group of coral islands, and much arduous collecting is still needed to gather a full series of the insects settled there. . . It is therefore with earnest solicitude that we await the time when some acute collector will undertake to solve the problem of insect settlement which lies deeply buried in the history of this little group of islands."—p. 152, 153. Hurdis, John L. Rough notes and memoranda relating to the Natural History of the Bermudas. By the late John L. Hurdis, formerly Controller of customs and navigation laws in those islands. Edited by his daughter, H. J. Hurdis. London, 1897. 8°. vi. + [ii.] + 408 pp.

Note. — Mr. Hurdis lived in Bermuda from October, 1840 to May, 1855. The "notes" forming this volume were taken, mainly, from September, 1846 to the time he left the islands. They were made use of by him in J. M. Jones's Naturalist in Bermuda (London, 1859), p. 56-97. Captain Savile G. Reid had the use of the manuscript in compiling his Birds of Bermuda (Washington, 1884), which appeared as Part 4 in Bulletin No. 25 (p. 163-279), of the U. S. National Museum. This work is especially valuable to the student of Bermuda ornithology as it contains much of the original information made use of in all later works relating to the birds of these islands. "The work is in journal form, and is written somewhat after the style of Whitre's Selberne; and if it lacks the charm of that classic, this can hardly be considered a fault on the part of the author."—Nature, vol. 55, p. 604. He enumerates ha all 178 species, p. 303-314. He also enumerates about 130 species of the "Trees, shrubs, and plants of Bermuda," p. 364-372. While these notes relate largely to birds —over 300 pages of his book being taken up with his field-notes on this subject, —there is much information upon a variety of other subjects, as Butterflies and Moths, p. 314-324; Insecta, p. 34-330; Mammalia, p. 330-339; Whales, p. 339-341; Fishes, p. 341-360; Crustacea, p. 361-363; Republia, 363-364; Trees, Shrubs, and Plants, p. 364-372; The Sand Hills, p. 372-380; Fresh Water Sources, p. 380-387; Waterspout, p. 387-389; Earthquakes, p. 389-391; Climate, 391-392; Aurora Borealis, p. 392-394; On the Formation of the Bermudaa, p. 394-401; On the Preservation of Birds by the Bermudaa, p. 394-401; On the Preservation of Birds by the Bermudaa, p. 394-401; On the Preservation of Birds by the Bermudaa, p. 397-401; On the Promation of Birds by the Bermudaa, p. 397-401; On the Promation of Birds by the Bermudaa, p. 398-80; Ernational scientific series. RICE, Prof. William North. The Geology of Bermuda. Part I. p. 1-32. 5 plates.

Note.—"The result of a careful reconnaissance during a six weeks' visit in the spring of 1877."—Preface, p. vi. The author discusses the subject under the following headings:—History and literature of the subject; Physical geography of Bermuda; Is Bermuda an atoll? The coral limestone and its varieties; Movements of elevation and subsidence; Has Bermuda subsided within listoric times? Erosion; The "Red earth"; Phenomena resulting from the unequal hardening of the limestone; Non-calcareous rocks and minerals; Fossiis. The author enumerates about sixteen different minerals (p. 20-30) found by various observers in the "titaniferous sands" and other sources, at various localities along the shore. He also gives, on p. 31-32, a list of twenty-two fossils which have been found in the beach-rock in several localities.

Note.—A list of twenty-five species found exclusively or almost exclusively in the Walsingham tract, p. 40. List of 150 species regarded as native (including those of the Walsingham tract), p. 41-42. This work gives the names of 945 species, divided as follows:—native, 150; naturalized, 166; introduced, 629—of the latter 215 species are included which are "of horticultural but not of botanical interest, . . . [and which are] inserted . . . to complete the view of the vegetation of Bermuda, as related to climate, and as it presents itself to the visitor." p. 43. Of this work Hemsley says: "Unfortunately the editing leaves much to be desired, the same plant, in several instances, being repeated under different synonyms; others, by some slip, appear under false generic names, and some are enumerated under wrong natural orders."—CHALLENGER EXPEDITION. Note. — The author who was in Bermuda from March 30, 1874 to June 3, 1875, describes 186 species. "No species has as yet been discovered peculiar to the islands."—p. 167. "That fresh species will from time to time be added to the present list is more than probable; in fact it is possible that the whole migratory avi-fauna of North America may eventually be recorded as Bermudian. When such diminutive flyers as the Ruby-throated Humming-bird, Trochilus colubris, and the Blue Yellow-backed Warbler, Parula americana, can find their way across 600 miles of water in safety, where is the line to be drawn?"—p. 166-167. This essay "is the final result of the labors of Jones, Hurdis, Wedderburn, and others. . . Much of the completeness of this list is due to the labors of . . . Mr. John T. vately printed.

Note. — Arranged alphabetically by scientific names, followed by popular name and place where found. It was deposited in the Public Library, by General Lefroy, for general information, with a view to its extension.

"The foundation of this list is one that was kindly made for Governor Lefroy by the late Mr. Perot in 1871 of the West Indian and other tropical plants growing in his own Garden, or known to him. This was much extended by the Hon. J. H. Darrell. It has subsequently been added to and corrected by Mr. Middleton, Gardener at Mount Langton [the Governor's residence], and by enquiries in various quarters including a comparison with the plants enumerated by Mr. J. M. Jones, in The Bermuda Naturalist (1856) so that it is hoped that ... nothing very material is omitted."—leaf z.

THE SCHLEY COURT OF INQUIRY.

THE GREEN BAG for February, 1902, will contain (among other articles) a dispassionate legal review of The Schley Court of Inquiry, by Charles E. Grinnell.

THE GREEN BAG (illustrated) containing a variety of such historical, biographical, antiquarian, critical and humorous literature as is especially interesting to lawyers, — is also interesting for all thoughtful readers — and for the Reading Rooms of Libraries.

A bound set of THE GREEN BAG is an Encyclopædia of legal biography, history and portraiture. Being indexed in Poole, it should be in every library.

Subscription to the GREEN BAG, annually, $4.00. Single numbers, each, 50 cents. BOUND SET, 1889--1901, 13 volumes, half-morocco, BOUND SET, 13 volumes, Reprint Edition, half-cloth (until exhausted), $32.50.

IMPORTANT REVIEW.

THE CONTEMPORARY REVIEW is soon to be one of the scarcest modern reviews. We have an unbound set of volumes 1-78, 1866-1900, which we will sell for

Please remember that while we make special efforts to have in stock all the less common periodical sets, we also have on hand at very low prices sets of the most popular magazines.

HARPER'S MONTHLY. SCRIBNER'S MAGAZINE. ATLANTIC MONTHLY. CENTURY.

NEW ENGLAND MAGAZINE. LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE. McCLURE'S MAGAZINE. ETC., ETC., ETC.

Prices vary according to condition, whether bound, or unbound. As a sample we offer CENTURY from 1881, vols. 1-37, unbound for 3 cents a number ($6.66), to the library ordering and mentioning this offer.

UNIQUE

APLETE WORKS.

EXTRA ILLUSTRATED.

We have, placed in our hands for sale, a unique set of Scott, of the imprint of Robert Cadell, Edinburgh, in the early forties. The set comprises

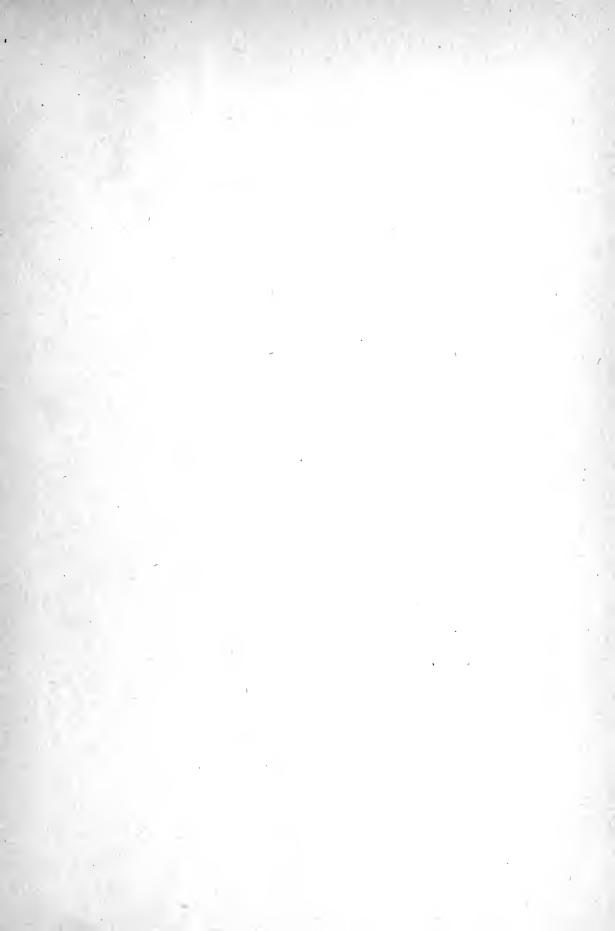

- 5 VOLUMES OF NOVELS, 537 Plates, 2 Plans, 3 Pages Ms., 2 VOLUMES OF PROSE WORKS, 99 Plates,
- I VOLUME POETICAL WORKS, 88 Plates, I Page of Ms.,
- I VOLUME LIFE OF SCOTT, 139 Plates, I Page of Ms.

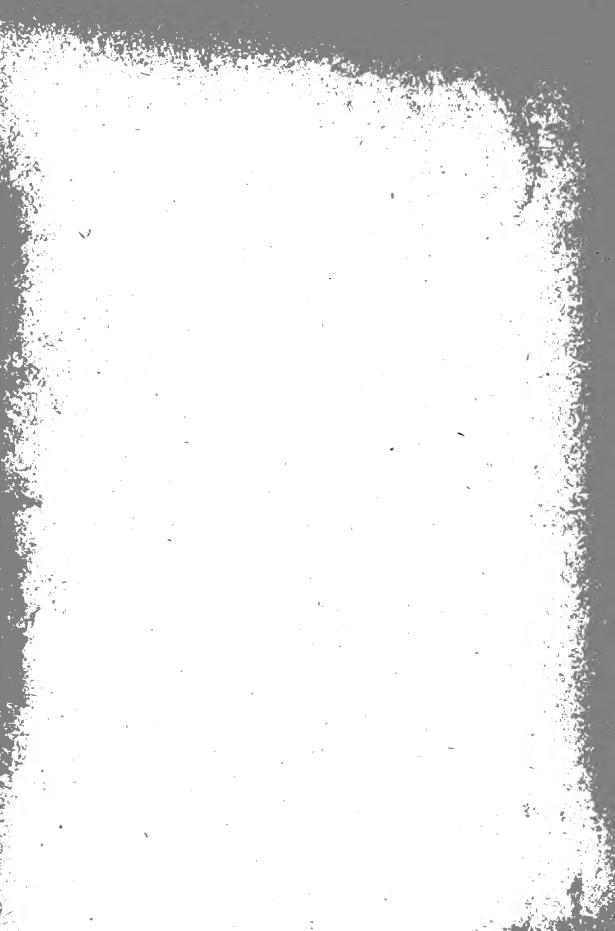

In all nine thick volumes, in half calf gilt, red edges. The binding is worn, two volumes having hinges cracked.

"This copy cost over £200. Nearly every place or castle mentioned is reproduced from authentic plates, as well as photographs of notabilities of those times. Some of the plates are very rare, and special permission has to be obtained to use them from their owners, the lords, etc., of the castles, referred to. The compiler did two copies, one of which was sold in London for £130."

This set is for sale by us for $250.00. If not suitable for your library, would not one of your rare-book-loving trustees be glad to know of such a chance? Address
